FOREWORD

IF it were not for the patience and generosity of Francis J. Hills Esq., of Rahway, N. J., this book would never have become available. It is important to note that his earliest known progenitor, Samuel Hills of Duxbury, Mass., and Lebanon, Conn., wrote the final "s" to his surname. While some of the descendants changed the spelling, most of them, including Mr. Hills' branch, retained the original form.

Samuel Hills was not a son of John Hill of Saybrook, Conn., nor was the latter a son of William Hills of Hartford, Conn., as has been claimed without evidence or proof. Of these facts I am certain.

Throughout the text, reference is made to the Hills Notes, a typed manuscript, with many photostatic copies of original documents, which I compiled and which Mr. Hills has presented to the New England Historic Genealogical Society.

Mr. Hills has particularly requested that full acknowledgement be accorded to the late William Sanford Hills and Thomas Hills for their Hills Family in America, published in 1906. I wish to thank Mrs. Charles D. Townsend of West Hartford, Conn., and Donald Lines Jacobus, M.A., of New Haven, Conn., for their able assistance in some of the local research, also Miss Marion C. Reed of Brookline, Mass., for her help in reading proof with me.

DESCENDANTS OF SAMUEL HILLS

1. SAMUEL¹ HILLS, birthplace and parentage unknown, aged sixty-two in 1735, hence born in 1673, resident of Duxbury, Mass., from at least 1694, died in Lebanon, Conn., between 6 Sept. 1748 and 12 Oct. 1753, testate. He married, in Duxbury, 6 Nov. 1694*, PHEBE LEONARD, probably living in Lebanon, 28 Apr. 1733, daughter of Sgt. Philip and Lydia (——) Leonard, about whom see the Addenda. As a second wife, he married, in Lebanon, 25 Feb. 1735, ABIGAIL HINCKLEY, born in Barnstable, Mass., about 1693, living in Lebanon, 26 Oct. 1753, daughter of Ensign John and Mary (Goodspeed) Hinckley.† No issue by this second marriage.

W. S. Hills' and Thomas Hills' 1906 Hills Family in America, page 8, places our Samuel, without any proof, as the Samuel, born in Saybrook, Conn., 29 May 1671, son of a John Hill, by wife Jane, widow of John Bushnell; I find nothing to warrant such an assumption. Our Samuel of Duxbury was not a mariner, but a shoemaker, therefore there was no reason for him to backtrack from Saybrook to Duxbury; the trend was ever westward; nor did the Bushnell children apparently have relatives in Duxbury. Of our Samuel's eight children, none were named Jane or John, or bore the names that Jane gave her Bushnell offspring. Nor was this unknown John Hill of Saybrook a son of William Hills of Hartford, likewise claimed, for the latter's son, John, left no male heirs, as is clearly set forth in Jacobus' careful 1952, Hale House and Related Families, pages 581-582.‡

Therefore, we start this Lineage with the progenitor, Samuel Hills, of Duxbury and Lebanon, born in or about 1673, died about 1753, who evidently had just attained his majority, at the time of his 1694 wedding. Apparently possessed of no real property, this marriage with Phebe was a fortunate step for young Samuel, for she was sole heiress of her parents and in this way, Samuel and Phebe, eventually became owners of all of her father's holdings in Duxbury. It has been stated that Philip Leonard, her father, removed to Duxbury from Marshfield, Mass., but as we shall see in his account, which has been carefully compiled, this is not true. He lived on the line between the two towns and his farm and other lands fell within Duxbury when that line was straightened.

Before we continue with the account of Samuel Hills, it is well to point out that a most exhaustive search for his parentage was made and with a negative result. The name of HILL and HILLS was often interchanged and this was borne in mind. A list of the principal authorities consulted has been kept. The only other family of the name in old Plymouth Colony was Ralph Hill and son, of Plymouth, but the Samuel, son of Ralph Jr., born in 1672, lived and died (1755) in Billerica, Mass., so is eliminated.*

The bounds between Duxbury and Marshfield were established, 23 Feb. 1683; earlier, 2 Mar. 1658, "Namassakeesett" was annexed to Duxbury; more lands were granted both towns, 5 Mar. 1661; the bounds between Duxbury and the Major's Purchase were established, 5 July 1670; later, in 1813, the bounds between the towns were again stipulated. 21 Mar. 1712, Pembroke was set off from Duxbury, being that part called Mattakeeset, the Major's Purchase and land known as Marshfield Upper Lands. (In 1734, Halifax was set off from a portion of Pembroke and in 1820, Hanson was also set off from Pembroke.) This will help us to understand why, when the Pembroke Vital Records (1911) were printed, they contain, pages 107 and 289, these records, for Hills:

"Abgell," b. 26 Mar. 1697

Philip, b. 9 Aug. 1699

Richard, b. 3 Feb. 1702-03

Samuel Jr., b. 25 June 1701

Samuel Hills and ——— ———, m. 6 Nov. 1694

The reference to the above is Private Record #174, which was in the possession of a Henry Torrey, of North Hanson †; doubtful if authentic or ancient, it was evidently copied, in part, from the Duxbury Vital Records.

It is most unfortunate that the Town Proceedings (Minutes) of Duxbury are lost prior to 1686; that the Proprietors' Records only commence in 1709; and that the old First Church Records (now Unitarian) are only extant from 1739.

A personal trip to Duxbury, confirmed the above; also there are no Warnings in the records. The town proceedings are complete 1686 through 1711, then scattered until 1729. All the material about land grants, divisions, etc., was printed in 1893 in the Duxbury Town Records, 1642-1770, fully indexed, the preface of which states that the "Unimportant" town meeting records, as also the vital records are omitted. Important to us surely! The vital records were issued, in 1911, down to 1850. Also, in divers volumes of the Mayflower Descendant (34 volumes, 1905-1937), are the early vital records, verbatim, and exactly by page. Volume 10 (1908), pages 184-185, gives the "Hill" Leonard items, which were checked with the originals and found, page 41, to be exact. The final "s" is therein omitted. However in other records we find both spellings, for variations in spellings of surnames did not worry unduly our ancestors. All the land grants in names of Samuel Hills and Philip Leonard were checked with copies of those printed with the Town Meeting Records, a small volume preserved by the Emery Process. The General Records, 1645-1749, were read to 1730, this is also rebound by the same process. In this volume appears the Hill-Leonard record referred to above, page 41. There is also a volume of Miscellaneous Records, 1642-1745, again covered to 1730, rebound by the same process; a volume of Fragments, no dates but mainly 1779 to 1791 within and a few pages in the back of the book 1684, and Proprietors Second Division, 1712 and 1754 and families. And finally, a book of General Records, 1710-1786, and some miscellaneous items, 1816-1826. This last is a much larger book than the rest, and here the town meeting records commence regularly in 1734, after our family had left. These original Duxbury sources are explained so that the references given regarding Samuel's residence there will be clear. These books are not indexed and much of the writing is difficult and faded.

At the time our Samuel appears in Duxbury, 1694, the town was within the newly formed Plymouth County, with the county seat at Plymouth. Prior to 1686, and before the establishment of this county, both Duxbury and Marshfield were part of the old Colony, so-called, Plymouth Colony, which had been annexed by the Bay Colony (Massachusetts).*

I wish to stress that the first actual record we have for our Samuel is his marriage in 1694:

Court of Common Pleas, Plymouth County, 1702-1773, volume one, page three: "Registry of Marriages within ye Town of Duxborough" "1694 Samuel Hill married to Phebe Leonard," 6 November. An examination of this original entry shows no final "s" to the name of Hill.†

The complete record as it appears in the General Records of Duxbury, 1645-1749, page 41, and which is exactly printed in the May-

* Therefore the records of Plymouth County, as such, only date from 1686 (actually in most cases 1692) and before then one must turn to the records of Plymouth Colony. Fortunately the records of this Colony, except the deeds (after the first volume) and the probate, are printed. There are moreover, copies of the deeds and probate at the Mass. Archives, but these are not cross-indexed.

† This marriage has been printed in these copies of published vital records: Genealogical Advertiser (1898), 1: 2; Bailey's Mass. Marriages (1900), 2: 54; Mayflower Desc. (1908), 10: 184; Duxbury V. R. (1911) and Pembroke V. R. (1911); Mayflower Desc. (1924), 26: 37.

The Hills evidently lived with the Leonards and after they inherited the Leonard place continued there until they went southwest to Lebanon, at which time, many from Plymouth County, disgusted with the poor soil, settled in eastern Connecticut, in and near Lebanon.

Before 1702, we only have record of Samuel, as follows: his 1694 marriage to Phebe Leonard and the births of their three eldest: Abigail, Philip and Samuel, in 1697, 1699 and 1701. At this period, he was not a land owner and did not join a church until 1707, vide post. He then bought land of the town of Duxbury:

15 June 1702, The “town have appointed . . . Capt Arnold and Mr. David Alden to sell and lay out to Samuel Hill of this town, about twenty acres of land of the town’s commons, they returning the money to the town.” (Duxbury Town Recds., 1893, 193.)†

(ibid., 196.)

17 May 1703, both Philip Leonard and "Sam^l Hill," protest, with others, an action of the town of Duxbury relative to lands. (Misc. Recds., 1642-1745, 285.)

In 1909, the records of the First Church in Marshfield were published in the Mayflower Descendant, continuing in later volumes. The foreword states that this, the oldest known record, begins in 1696, and that if there was an earlier book, it has been lost. The records that interest us are below:

31 Aug. 1707, "Samuel hill received into this Church."

2 May 1708, "Sam: Hill" had daughter baptised: Abigail.

- March 1709, "Phebe hill Wife to Samuel Hill was baptised and five of their children."

15 July 1711, "Sam: Hill had a child baptised called Lydia."

Also, 25 Aug. 1723, Samuel Hill Jr., and wife had son Joseph baptised and, 27 June 1725, had daughter "Hanna" baptised.

(Mayflower Descendant, 31: 118, 119, 164, 165.)

Thus we learn that although Samuel and his son and namesake were considered legal residents of Duxbury, they attended church in Marshfield, living in the northern part of Duxbury near the town line. A few months, after Samuel joined the Marshfield church, his mother-in-law died in Duxbury, 13 Nov. 1707; no estate. When the latter's husband, Philip Leonard, died there within a year, 3 July 1708, an administration was effected on his estate:

"To Samuel Hill Son in law of Phillip Leonard Late of Duxburrough in the County of Plimouth . . . Deceased Greeting . . . I do by these presents Commit unto you full Power to Administer," to the estate of the deceased, etc., 12 July 1708. In this connection, an inventory was made, 8 July, by William Carver and Arthur Howland, to which "Samuel Hill" made oath, 11 July, 1708, only personal property was listed. (Plymouth Probate, 12663.)*

6 Aug. 1709, "Samuel hills" witnessed the will of Joseph Waterman,

* There is no bond on file, in the volumes are copies of the inventory and the letter of administration, 2: 99, 100; see the Addenda.

of Marshfield, to which he did not testify*; and, in 1710, we note:

“an Account to whom the Lotts fell that belong to ye first Division in the Common lands in the town of Duxborough Anno Domini 1710 . . . the second lot fell to Samuel Hill and James Thomas.” Earlier there appears the bounds of “The Second lot lyeth joyning to y^e first and beginneth at a stake and heap of Stones by y^e County Rode and from thence it runneth North 37 degrees East eighty Rods to a gray oak tree & from thence it runneth South 61 degrees east eighty rods to a stake and heap of Stones and from thence it runneth South 37 degrees West eighty Rods to a Stake and stones by y^e Country Rhoad and as the Road runneth to y^e first mentioned stake.” (Duxbury General Recds., 1710–1786, 9, 3.)

And, the same year, the following record was preserved:

“List of y^e Names and those that have a Right in y^e last Division of y^e towns Coñons upland & medow in Duxborough . . . June ye 5th 1710 . . . Samuel Hill.” (Duxbury Proprietors 2d Division Recds., 16–17.)

Having received Leonard’s property, through his marriage with Phebe, sole heiress, in addition to the town grant, made in 1702, of twenty acres in Duxbury, Samuel was now in a position to appear in the land transfers:

18 Nov. 1710, “Samuel Hills † of . . . Duxborough . . . cordwainer † Sendeth Greeting Know Ye that I y^e sd Samuel Hills for . . . Nine Pounds . . . Paid by James Thomas of . . . Duxborough . . . Yeoman . . . Confirm . . . unto him . . . Land . . . within . . . Duxborough . . . being y^e one Half of a fourty Acre Lot of Land which fell by Lot to me in y^e first Division of . . . Duxborough Common Lands . . . (Plymouth Deeds, 14: 64.)

24 Dec. 1712, we have the following record:‡

“We the subscribers being desired by Samuel Hills to renew the bounds of his land viz Of that which was his father’s Phillip Leonard, which we did as followeth We began at a swamp and stones — showed to us to be the corner bound, and from said stump, we run S.W. by W. to a white oak tree marked on two sides standing on the Westerly side of a branch of the spruce swamp, and then bounded on the Northerly side by said spruce swamp, till it come near the end of the neck, where we marked a spruce tree on four sides standing upon a ledge of rocks, and from said spruce tree marked on four sides, South-erly 48 rods to a maple tree marked on four sides, standing by the side of the

(Duxbury Town Recds., 1893, 90.)

Again, two years later, Samuel Hills appears in the deeds, as grantor:

9 July 1714, "I Samuel Hills of . . . Duxborough . . . in the County of Plimouth in her Majesties Province of the Massechusetts Bay in New England Cordwainer for . . . the sum of Eighteen pounds . . . paid by Solomon Hewet of . . . Second and Last Division of Comons belonging to the town of Duxborough . . . and Pembroke in the County aboves^d . . . Layd out . . . one thousand seven hundred & thirteen," bounded S.E. by the said Hills' home, etc.; no r.d., signed "Samuel Hills"; wit: mark of Elizabeth Arnold and by Ichabod Bartlett, ack. same day; recd. 5 Oct. 1714. (Plymouth Deeds, 11: 49.)

14 Aug. 1714, "I, Samuel Hills of . . . Duxborough . . . for . . . fifteen Pounds . . . paid by Israel Thomas of . . . Marshfield . . . confirm from me . . . unto him . . . ten acres . . . in Duxborough . . . being part of ye seventieth lot in . . . ye late allotment of lands," bounded on the Marshfield town line, etc.; signed by "Samuel Hills"; ack. same day, at which time "Phebe his wife" released her dower rights; wit: Elizabeth Thomas and mark of Elizabeth Holmes; recd. 3 July 1728. (ibid., 23: 85.)*

There are two volumes for the General Sessions of the Peace of Plymouth County, 1686-1721,† and one volume, 1723-1730, preserved by the Emery Process and no index; I scanned all three volumes past 1725, for both Hills and Leonard, but in a hurried search found but one mention, that of Hills:

In March, 1717, "Sam^l Hills" served as a grand juror. (Vol. 2, not paged.)

I regret that I did not have time to run the concurrent, from 1702 Records of the Court of Common Pleas, although the period most valuable to us is that pre-dating his marriage, in Duxbury, 6 Nov. 1694.

He again appears as a grantor, the same year, 1717:

23 May 1717, "I Samuel Hills of Duxbury . . . for . . . Three Pounds . . . paid by Henry Josselyn junr of Scittuate . . . Have Sold unto him . . . all that my tenth Part of the third & the twenty third Lots of Cedar

In 1725, Samuel Hills conveyed to his second son and namesake, mentioning a deed of even date to the eldest son, Philip:

5 Jan. 1724-25, "Samuel Hills of Duxborough . . . & Phebe his Wife . . . for . . . Eighty Pounds . . . to us . . . in hand by our Son Samuel Hills of Duxborough . . . Paid . . . Confirm unto y^e s^d Samuel Hills after the Decease of us the s^d Samuel & Phebe Hills . . . a Certain Parcell of Land Situate . . . in . . . Duxborough . . . (ibid., 19: 173.)†

There is no doubt that the above conveyance was drawn New Style 1725, since it was recorded in that year, but we are puzzled as to whether the deeds, abstracted below, were drawn in 1724-1725 or in 1725-1726. Since the Hills, father and son, were selling out their Duxbury holdings, and since the elder bought in Lebanon "late of Duxbrough," in May 1726, it would appear that New Style 1726, is correct:

15 Jan. 1725, "Samuel Hills and Phebe Hills & Samuel Hills Jun^r all of Duxborough . . . Know that We . . . for . . . four hundred & forty five Pounds Currant Money of s^d Province [depreciated currency] . . . paid by Samuel Baker jun^r of Marshfield . . . House Carpenter . . . Confirm unto him . . . Our whole ffarm . . . in Duxborough . . . Whereon We now live & dwell Containing . . . about Sixty Acres," bounds of no interest; signed by "Samuel Hills", mark of Phebe Hills and by "Samuel Hills jun^r"; wit: Kenelm Baker and Arthur Howland Jr.; ack. same day; recd. 8 July 1729. [1725-26?] (ibid., 24: 128.)

7 Mar. 1725, Samuel Hills Jr., of Duxbury, labourer, and Hannah, his wife, a "daughter of Elihab Turner, late of Scituate, deceased," for £37, sold William Witherell, of Scituate, cordwainer, all rights to certain land there, of which our father the said Turner, died seized, and passed by deed of our brother, Elazarus Turner, late of Scituate, by estimation some twenty-five acres; signs as Samuel Hills Jr., wife Hannah makes her mark; wit: John

Jones Jr., and "Samuel Hills"; recd. 2 Dec. 1728. [1725-26?] (ibid., 23: 182.) [Note the father acts as a witness]*

Our attention now turns to Lebanon, Conn., to which the Hills family removed before 25 May 1726. An old township, incorporated October 1700, and now in New London County, it was settled largely from Plymouth and Barnstable Counties, Mass., and from Rhode Island. Originally beautiful and with fine old Eighteenth and early Nineteenth Century houses, it is now quite foreign in population, although Miss Abell, the town clerk, is of the original old English stock. The proof of Samuel Hills of Lebanon being identical with Samuel Hills of Duxbury is contained in the invaluable land records:

25 May 1726, "I Caleb Hammond of Lebanon . . . for one hundred & thirty [pounds] to me in hand [paid] by Samuel Hills late of Duxbrough in the County of Plymouth . . . and now in . . . Lebanon . . . confirm unto him . . . two certain parcels of land . . . in Lebanon . . . two fifth parts of one hundred acres . . . which I bought [of] Nathaniel Gillet once of Lebanon," wit: Samuel West and Daniel Foster; ack. same day; recd. 28 May 1726; he signs. (Lebanon, Conn., Deeds, 4: 6.)†

16 June 1726, Joseph Gillet, formerly of Lebanon (present res. not cited), for £56, sold Samuel Hills, of Lebanon, part of a 100-acre lot there, in all some 20 acres; wit: Amos and Samuel West; he signs; recd. 14 July 1726. (ibid., 4: 12.)†

Of the Lebanon churches, all Congregational in that era, we note that the First Church was organized, 27 Nov. 1700; the Second or Lebanon Crank (since 1804 in Columbia), May 1716, by division of the older society, and the Third, or Goshen parish, was formed, 26 Nov. 1729, with the Rev. Jacob Eliot, who died in 1766, as first minister. This Goshen parish, is generally called the Second Church of Lebanon, since the Crank became the town of Columbia. Goshen, which the Hills family were instrumental in forming, was in the southwest part of Lebanon, on the Colchester line. A typed and alphabetical copy of the Lebanon First Church Records, 1700-1883, at the Conn. State Library, shows, page 90:

Hill, Ann & hus. Philip, owned covenant, 4 Aug. 1728.

Eliab and James, baptised 21 Apr. 1728; no parents given.

Samuel and wife [worn off at bottom of page] admitted 3 July 1726.

Thus we learn that our Samuel and wife joined the First Church, in July 1726, their son Philip and his wife also owning the Covenant,

A Samuel "Hill" appears in Pembroke, 1782, and a Richard "Hill" of same, in 1764 (vide post); no early Hill or Hills estates. A search of the copies of the *Plymouth Col. Deeds, ante 1686, Mass. in August 1728, and that Eliab [Elihab], son of Samuel Jr., and James, son of Philip, were both baptised in April 1728. Samuel Hills Sr., made further purchases of Gillet property in 1726 and in 1727:

28 July 1726, "Nathaniel Gillet of . . . Litchfield . . . for . . . fourteen pounds . . . [paid] by Samuel Hills of Lebanon," conveys to him six and two thirds acres there, formerly part of Nathaniel Gillet's land, of Lebanon, and in part by brother Jonathan Gillet's land; wit: Samuel and Nathan West; signs; recd. 28 July 1726. (Lebanon Deeds, 4: 14.)

21 Sept. 1727, "Elijah Gillet of Wethersfield . . . and formerly of Lebanon," for £53, sells to "Samuel Hill of the afores^d Lebanon" *, part of an one hundred-acre tract there, formerly part of the land that hond. father died seized of, being one fifth part of same; also mentions loving brother, Jonathan Gillet, decd.; in all conveys some 26 acres; wit: Gershom Clark and Ebenezer Gillet; ack. 22 Sept., recd. 29 Sept., 1727. (ibid., 4: 56.)

Preserved in the Connecticut Archives, in the State Library, Ecclesiastical Papers, series I, volume 4, document 38: a, b, c., is a petition to the General Court of 12 Oct. 1727, seeking a new parish in Lebanon, and signed by "Phillip hills," "Samuel hills iur," and "Samuel hills." All three signatures clearly show the final "s" in the surnames. The Court appointed a special committee to view the situation but the matter dragged and a second petition was presented at the Court of May 1728, as see the said papers, series and volume, document 13: 43a, which was again signed by "Samuel Hills iur," "Philip Hills," and "Samuel hills." Again all three signatures show the final "s." †

The original records of the Lebanon Third, or Goshen, Church may be consulted at the State Library, from which all Hill and Hills items were copied ante 1753. From this source may be noted:

Samuel Hills signed the Covenant, no date, probably 1729.

Hannah Hills admitted to communion, from Lebanon First Church, no date.

Philip and Hannah Hills admitted to communion, 3 Aug. 1730.

Abigail Hills admitted to communion, 4 Oct. 1730.

Samuel Hills Jr., admitted to communion, 3 Oct. 1731.

Abigail Hineckley admitted to communion and baptised, 13 Oct. 1734.

Ephraim and Hannah Hills admitted to full communion, 4 Apr. 1736.

Ebenezer and Margaret Hills admitted to communion, 6 Aug. 1738.

The baptisms of the children and later admissions will be given in the account of Samuel's issue. It seems possible that Phebe's name was omitted, for Samuel's wife was alive in 1733, and she had been a member of the First Church. Hannah, above, was probably wife of Samuel Jr., and Abigail was his eldest sister, who did not marry until 1735. The same day that Ephraim and his first wife became members, his youngest sister, Lydia Foster, joined. Of course, Richard Hills does not appear as he was of Hanover, Mass., from at least 1729. It is unfortunate that the parson did not give the children's parents in recording the baptisms of infants.*

The Lebanon Town Records, 1692-1802, preserved by the Emery Process, and difficult to read, were scanned from 1725 to past 1760, from which we learn that Philip Hills was a lister, 21 Dec. 1730; Samuel Hills Jr., a surveyor of highways, 20 Dec. 1734, and a member of a committee in 1735; and a Freeman's List of 1730, includes "Sam¹¹ Hills," 28 April, as does another such list, 11 Sept. 1739.

Samuel Hills then appears in a few more deeds in Lebanon in connection with the settlement of his sons:

15 Feb. 1730-31, "I Samuel Hills of . . . Lebanon . . . for £35 . . . paid by my son Samuel Hills," of Lebanon, convey land there bounded by land that I bought of Hammond and Gillet; signs; wit: Joshua and Sarah West, ack. same day and recd. 23 Mar. 1731. (Lebanon Deeds, 4: 345.)

28 Apr. 1733, "Sam¹¹ Hills of Lebanon whereas I the s^d Sam¹¹ Hills Did formerly give to my Son Samuel Hills a Good Deed of a peice of Land in Lebanon . . . in which Deed war Some Limitation that wear not to his satisfaction," (viz^t) in which deed I reserved to my life and to my wife's life,† but now on further consideration do forego part of said deed and now absolutely give him the said property and is part of the farm on which I now dwell; signs; wit: Joshua and Sarah West; ack. same day and recd. 30 Nov. 1734. (ibid., 5: 88.)

22 Feb. 1734 [1734-35], ". . . a Bargain made Between Sam¹¹ Hills and his Son Ephraim Hills both of Lebanon . . . the above named Samuel Hills upon Consideration . . . Do Covenant . . . (ibid., 5: 129.)

Three days after the above life care and maintenance agreement with his youngest living son, Ephraim, through whom this line descends, Samuel took a second wife, 25 Feb. 1734-35. The record of this marriage is unusual in that it gives the ages of the bride and groom, the first matrimonial venture for the former, Abigail Hinckley, aged forty-two, and the second for the latter, aged sixty-two. (Goshen Church Records.) *

Five years later, we have the last record for Samuel Hills, as alive, with the exception of his will, drawn 6 Sept. 1748. This 1740 instrument is another agreement for life care with the son, Ephraim:

29 Aug. 1740, "I Ephraim Hills of Lebanon," in consideration of a good and ample deed of gift, of even date, given by "my Honored Father Sam^l Hills," of same town, do confirm unto him all that farm and mansion house, "In which we do Each of us now Live & Dwell in Lebanon," said farm contains sixty-five acres; mentions as a bound, the S.W. corner of "my Brother Sam^l Hills Land," with life tenure of said property for my said father and his care and maintenance, etc.; wit: Jonathan Trumble and Ichabod Robinson; ack. 1 Sept. 1740 by "Mr" Ephraim Hills; recd. same day. (Lebanon Deeds, 6: 157.)

There are seven original documents in Samuel's estate; all are recorded in the Windham Probate District, Willimantic, Conn. (4: 392-395; 5: 351.) The copies and abstracts below were made from these original documents:

"In the Name of God, Amen This 6th day of Septem^r A Dom: 1748

The last mention of the first wife, Phebe, by name, 15 Jan. 1725, of Duxbury, appears in the deeds. 3 July 1726, Samuel had a "wife," and again 28 Apr. 1733, but in the last two instances, her name is not given. Presumably he had but the two wives, Phebe Leonard, mother of his children, and Abigail Hinckley, who survived.

Jon. Trumble” *

* I think that Trumble wrote the will.

The will was proved 22 Oct. 1753 by the last two witnesses, who swore that they saw the testator, "Mr" Samuel Hills sign, etc., and the executor was confirmed on the same day.

The inventory, dated 12 Oct. 1753, made by Joseph White and Josiah Bartlett, came to a total of £281-00-06, and comprised his personal estate including the stock. Among the items listed are two silver spoons, a Bible at £9 and a book at 4s, also "one Book of Calvins," at £5, and "one Bible English print," at £9; a gun, cane and pocket Book.*

Receipts were then filed by the heirs for their respective legacies: by Ephraim Hills, Lebanon, 9 Nov. 1753; by Abigail "Barnrick" her mark, Lebanon, 10 Dec. 1753; by Ebenezer Hills, Lebanon, 9 Nov. 1753; and by Richard Hills, "Handover," 24 May 1754. Ephraim's and Abigail's were witnessed by Joseph Hills, eldest son of Samuel², and Asa Foster; Ebenezer's by Joseph White and Samuel² Hills; and Richard's by two Duxbury men, Isaac Peterson and John Partridge.

Since this Hills lineage descends through the youngest living son, Ephraim, his receipt is given below:

"Lebanon november the 9 day 1753

There is also, dated at Lebanon, 26 Oct. 1753, this receipt:

"Rec^d of Mr Amos Thomas Exceter To the Estate or Moveables of Samuel Hills Late of Lebanon Deceas^d Wild to the Widow Abigel Hills By A power of A Torney of S^d Widow By Me Garshom Hineckley" various items were listed including two silver spoons, a Bible at £9, a book at 4s., also "By Cash old Tenor which was Due from Ephraim Hills to his Mother £20-0-0." Witnessed by James Mackall Jun^r and Archippus Mackall [McCall]. (Windham Dist. Probate, 1889, C. S. L.) ‡

Reference is made in the Hills Family, 1906, page eight, to the "Kingsley's Record," of Lebanon. This record was made from various town and probate records, also some deeds, in and near Lebanon, including family records, by W. G. Kingsley, a former town clerk, according to a letter written, 2 Aug. 1910, by Mrs. L. W. Abell,

* One wonders what became of the two Bibles especially the "old English print" one; undoubtedly one or both contained family records.

† Ephraim Hills' inventory of 2 Oct. 1778, on his estate, includes "A Cane" at 18s., vide post.

wife of the then town clerk and mother of Miss Sarah Abell, the present town clerk. It is now in the office of the Town Clerk of Lebanon and was evidently consulted by the compiler of the 1906 work.

The names that Samuel and Phebe (Leonard) Hills gave to their eight children are of interest: Philip, for Philip Leonard, Phebe's father; Samuel for Samuel himself; Richard for ? and Lydia for Phebe's mother. Was Richard named for Samuel's father and Abigail for his mother? Of course, Ebenezer, Ephraim and Joseph are strong Biblical names and this was the Bible Commonwealth ne plus ultra!

In this connection we note that Clarence-A. Torrey in his manuscript, Marriages in New England ante 1700, lists no Richard Hills and the only Richard Hill was married around 1613 in England, much too remote. There was also a Richard Hill, early in Maine, but again this seems rather farfetched.

* This name may be a clue to the identity of the mother of Jemima (Ramsdell) Hills, altho it has been suggested that Sarah was born an Alverson.

adds a Phineas, b. 15 Aug. 1737, of whom I find no record, and calls Daniel, "David," etc.

2. EPHRAIM² HILLS (*Samuel*¹), born in Duxbury, Mass., 13 Dec. 1707, baptised in Marshfield, Mass., with four siblings, in March 1709, died in Colchester, Conn., 29 July 1778, aged seventy, testate. He married, first, in Lebanon, Conn., Second Church, 19 Feb. 1735 *, HANNAH BENTLEY, baptised there in the First Church, 1717-1718, died there, from childbirth, 27 Nov. 1736, daughter of William and Mary (Eliot) Bentley.† He married, secondly, about 1737-1738, LYDIA ———, born probably about 1710-1720, living, his widow, in Colchester, 12 July 1779, her identity not solved.

A most careful search was made in regard to Lydia, the second wife, through whom this lineage descends. Thus far the results have been negative. A manuscript of some dozen pages about this Lydia has been compiled.‡ It contains notes on the Nobles-Williams family of New London, Conn., as Ephraim named his third child, Nobles, and it is suggested that Lydia was, in some way, related to John Nobles; also, Ephraim's brother was, in 1737, of New London. There are also data about Elizabeth (Noble) Church of Colchester, and Lebanon families in which, early, the name of Lebbeus appears. One major investigation was the examination of the deed indexes of all the towns, extant 1770, east of the Connecticut River, plus eight towns west of the river; these towns are listed. All sorts of possibilities have been entertained and pursued, and the name of Hosford considered, inasmuch as the Record, 36: 56-57, in an account of Lydia (Hills) Young, vide post, states:

"She was of Marlboro', Conn. Her mother is said to have been a Hosford, but I cannot find her father's name. She had a brother Ephraim Hills, and a sister Mary who m. Oliver Phelps."

Now we know that this Lydia (Hills) Young was a daughter of Lebbeus and Hannah (Brown) Hills, so the question arises was she named for her grandmother, Lydia (Hosford) Hills? The 1936 Horsford-Hosford Genealogy does not place her nor do any of the Lydias therein fit the picture. However, this little book is not carefully done. There were in fact Hosfords in the Lebanon-Colchester area but a study of extant records has proved negative. I shall never cease my interest in this Lydia, second wife of Ephraim Hills, and the mother of all his children but the eldest.

One thing is apparent, as Lydia (——) Hills did not join the Lebanon Second, or Goshen, Church, after her marriage to Ephraim, it would seem that she was already a baptised member of the same. We must bear in mind that our particular Lydia could have been a young widow when she married Ephraim Hills, and that as her last child, by Hills, was born in 1752, she could not have been born before 1700; I have placed her birth as between 1710 and 1720. Original records always give the final "s" to the name of Lydia's third son, Nobles Hills, which is a very important factor. And now to return to her husband, Ephraim Hills.

* For a photo copy of this first marriage see my Hills Notes.

† Vide my Bentley Notes, at N. E. H. G. Society.

‡ Vide my Hills Notes.

At the age of nineteen, Ephraim accompanied his parents to Lebanon, where he acquired his first wife, when aged twenty-eight, in 1736. We have already noted the interesting bargain between Ephraim and his father, Samuel, enacted 22 Feb. 1734-35, when the latter was about to embark on his second marriage, and before the former's initial step in matrimony. Ephraim and Samuel were living together in the same homestead, and continued to do so. Then we have a long conveyance, by Ephraim, to his father, with provisions for life care and maintenance, as was often the custom in that era, drawn 29 Aug. 1740, vide ante, Lebanon Deeds, 5: 129; 6: 157.

In the interim, Ephraim and his first wife, Hannah, were admitted to full Communion with the Second Church of Lebanon, the so-called Goshen Parish, 4 Apr. 1736, his sister, Lydia (Hills) Foster, joining the same day; 7 Nov. 1736, Ephraim's eldest, daughter Hannah, was baptised therein, his wife dying the following 27th of that month.* As his first born, son Lebbeus, by the second wife, Lydia, "saw the light of day," 3 Oct. 1739, to be baptised in the same church, as "Lybius," 7 Oct. 1739, it is apparent that Ephraim married his wife, Lydia, by 1738.

11 Sept. 1740, "Ephraim Hill" appears in the Freeman's List of Lebanon; a careful search of the original Lebanon Town Meeting Records (1698-1802), from 1725 to past 1760, showed only one other item for an Ephraim, this was an undated ear mark, page 150, and written-in; it may apply to our Ephraim, to his nephew, or to his son!

"Ephraim Hill his mark for his Creaturs is a peice Cutt Slopeing off of the underside of the Left Ear 4 a Square Crop in the lop of the Right ear."

Samuel Hills, Ephraim's father, drew his will, 6 Sept. 1748, proved 22 Oct. 1753, given in full and verbatim in Samuel's account. In this document, the agreement with son Ephraim is mentioned and he was to pay the funeral charges, as he inherited the real property, also Ephraim was given the wearing apparel, his father's Cane and riding mare or horse, etc. We also have presented, in full and verbatim, Ephraim Hills' receipt, dated at Lebanon, 9 Nov. 1753, for a gun and cane received from the executor of the will, Amos Thomas.

* This church and parish was situated in the s.w. part of Lebanon, near the Colchester line.

Thus Ephraim succeeded to the home farm in Lebanon. He was not a land speculator and only appears once more there in the deeds, some twenty years later, after his last mention therein in 1740, when he sold out the farm and moved across the town line to Colchester. Here he bought in the western part, within Marlborough parish, which was set off as a separate township, being taken from Colchester, Glastonbury and Hebron, in October 1803, years after Ephraim's death. In Colchester he only appears twice in the deeds: his 1760 purchase and a 1773 sale to his eldest son, Lebbeus:

27 Feb. 1760, warranty deed, Joseph Peters of Colchester, for £350, "Received . . . of Ephraim Hills of Lebanon . . . confirm . . . (Colchester, Conn., Deeds, 7: 426.)

28 Feb. 1760, Ephraim Hills, of Lebanon, sold Amos Thomas, of same, for £355, land with a dwelling house thereon, in said town, being the farm on which I now live, in the parish of Goshen, and contains seventy-two acres and one hundred thirty-seven rods of land, an estate by inheritance, etc.; ack. and reed. same day; wit: William Metcalf and Abigail Metcalf Jr. (Lebanon Deeds, 9: 435.)

5 May 1773, "I Lebbeus Hills of Colchester, in the County of Hartford and Colony of Connecticut in New England for . . . Twenty Pounds . . . rec'd to My full Satisfaction of My Hon'd Father Ephraim Hills of Colchester . . . confirm unto the s'd Ephraim Hills one . . . Piece of Land . . . in Colchester in the Parish of Marlborough Containing about four acres," signed by "Lebbeus Hills," ack. same day and reed. 7 May 1773; wit: Epaphras Lord, J.P., and Dorothy Lord. (Colchester Deeds, 9: 65.)

Marlborough Society, or parish, had been established in May 1747, as Marlborough Society in Hebron, Colchester and Glastonbury, by division of Hebron Society, the Colchester First and Third Societies and Glastonbury Second Society. When the town of Marlborough was formed in 1803, as noted, it had the same bounds as this Marlborough Society. Unfortunately the records of this church, or parish, are incomplete, but have been covered as far as various "copies" are concerned.* There is no mention of Ephraim and his wife, Lydia, therein, or in the other Colchester churches.

The Colchester Town Meeting Records were examined for the period, 1760 to past 1804, with a negative result for any mention of Ephraim. The records of the Justices Court, 1767-1790, at the Conn. State Library, were also scanned, 1767-1780, but the only mention of an Ephraim, was in 1772, with the residence of Lebanon, so not our Ephraim.†

* For further data see the account of Lebbeus Hills, vide post.

† These Colchester Recds. Justices Courts were read by Mrs. Townsend.

There is no record of any military services for Ephraim in either Massachusetts or Connecticut. And a search for the records of his death, and that of his widow Lydia's, in town, church and the Hale Collection of Epitaphs (Conn. State Library), proved negative. Did Lydia remarry? Possible but not probable.

Ephraim died during the third year of the Revolutionary War, which perhaps explains the lack of any gravestone for him. He followed his father in dying testate.

There are three original documents in the estate of Ephraim Hills, the will, inventory and distribution of the widow's dower. All are recorded in the Colchester District Probate, at Colchester (4: 375, 376, 67), in addition to which there is an acceptance of the trust, by the executor, 4: 374, see below, of which there is no extant original document:

Lucy Blish."

David Blish and Elijah Bemiss attested, 3 Aug. 1778, as did Lucy Blish, 19 Sept. 1778, all before Epaphras Lord, J.P. (Colchester Dist. Probate, 1622, C. S. L.)

Evidently, David Miller, a close neighbor of the testator's, declined, or was unable, to serve as co-executor, for, 6 Oct. 1778, the Court appointed "Labous Hill," as sole executor of the estate of "Ephraim Hill," late of Colchester, deceased, and the said executor exhibited the will, the inventory was also ordered accepted and to be recorded. (Colchester Dist. Probate, 4: 374.)*

We note that the inventory, dated 2 Oct. 1778, of the estate of "Mr Ephraim Hills of Colchester Latly Deceased," is lengthy and detailed, the valuations therein being the depreciated currency of the war years. It lists his wearing apparel, including a beaver hat, blue coat, great coat, his "Cane," etc.; his real estate comes next, with just the house, land and barn itemized; then considerable household linen, various household effects, two large pewter platters and other pewter, earthen ware and glass, a sidesaddle, two snuff bottles, candlesticks, two looking glasses, a powdering tub, "Old Books," some black steers, an ox, a bull, a cow, pide cow, red cow, two calves, eight sheep and three hives of bees.†

Elijah Kellogg and Elihu Marvin were appointed by the Court of Probate, for the District of East Haddam, to distribute the widow's thirds, "in the Estate of Mr Ephraim Hills late of Colchester Dec^d," according to his last will. She was to have the use and improvement of land adjacent to the dwelling house, about thirty-five acres, bounded by Ebenezer Strong, Eleazer Carter and "South by Land Given to Mr Lebbeus Hills by said Dec^d," and to have the west part of the barn and east half of the house, with liberty for the heirs to pass to the cellar and well in and out of the kitchen "Dore." She was also given two small lots of land near the highway, bounded by Samuel Kellogg, Capt. David Miller and Mr. Elisha Lord. Dated 12 July 1779 and recorded 1779. (Colchester Dist. Probate, 1622, C. S. L.‡)

3. LEBBEUS³ HILLS (*Ephraim*², *Samuel*¹), born in Lebanon, Conn., 3 Oct. 1739, baptised there, in the Second or Goshen Church, as "Lybius," 7 Oct. 1739, eldest son and the first born of his father, by the latter's second wife, living in the Marlborough Parish of Colchester, Conn., 31 Mar. 1784, and probably died between 1792 and 1809. He married, in the First Church of Colchester, ceremony by the Rev. Ephraim Little, 5 Nov. 1760*, HANNAH BROWN, born there, 28 Oct. 1738, died, a widow, in Marlborough, Conn., 21 Jan. 1828, aged ninety years and three months, daughter of George and Elizabeth (Wells) Brown, about whom see the Addenda.

He was evidently named for one of the Twelve Apostles, "Lebbaeus, whose surname was Thaddaeus." (St. Matthew 10: 3.) About 1760, his father moved from Lebanon to Colchester, where he settled in the

* Bailey's Conn. Marriages, 3: 103 gives incorrect name and date. For the Rev. Ephraim Little, Harvard, 1728, b. 1708, Marshfield, Mass., settled in Colchester 1732-1787, A.B., A.M., etc. see 1936 Weis' Col. Clergy.

Marlborough Society or Parish, at which time Lebbeus had just attained his majority. This Society had been formed in May 1747, in the towns of Hebron, Colchester and Glastonbury, by division of Hebron Society, Colchester First and Third Societies, and Glastonbury Second Society. Eventually, in October 1803, the new town of Marlborough with identical boundaries as the Society, was formed, from the three towns. Marlborough is thus surrounded by the towns of Glastonbury, North, Hebron, East, Colchester, South, and Chatham (since 1915 known as East Hampton), West, of which Glastonbury was formed 1693, Colchester 1698, Hebron 1708 and Chatham 1767.*

We have noted, 5 May 1773, Lebbeus' conveyance, as of Colchester, to his father, of four acres there, in the parish of Marlborough. In his father's will of 15 Mar. 1778, which was proved 3 Aug. 1778, "Labeus" was given one half the house and lands forever and at his mother's death, or marriage, the other half forever. He was to pay out certain token sums to the other heirs and with Capt. David Miller was to act as co-executor. However, Miller did not serve so, 6 Oct. 1778, the probate court appointed "Labous" as sole executor, and he was bonded and presented an inventory; the widow's dower being set off to her, 12 July 1779. As she had some thirty-five acres in land, the west part of the barn and the east part of the house, we infer that Lebbeus had about the same quantity of land, with the east half of the barn and the west part of the house.

As we shall see later, Lebbeus only appears as a grantor in the Colchester Deeds, twice, after his father's death, in 1780 and in 1784, and by the latter year had apparently succeeded in full to his father's real property. Thus we learn that by 1784, his mother, Lydia, was either deceased or had remarried. Lebbeus' first conveyance was probably of his wife's property:

29 Mar. 1762, "we Lebbeus Hills and Hannah Hills of Colchester . . . for . . . Twenty four pounds . . . Received . . . of Elias Ransom of Colchester," sold the latter a tract of twelve acres there; both sign as Hills; ack. same day and recd. 4 Mar. 1763; wit: Epaphras Lord, J.P., and Theodore Lord. (Colchester Deeds, 7: 542.)†

A survey of the unindexed original Town Records of Colchester, 1760–1804, reveals that "Lebbeus Hills," was admitted a freeman there, 20 Sept. 1763; as "Lebbeus Hills," he was sworn a surveyor of highways, 3 Oct. 1764; as "Lebbeus Hills," was chosen constable, 9 Dec. 1765; held same office, as "Lebeus Hills," 10 Dec. 1766; and as "Lebbeus Hills," 10 Dec. 1767. He was both constable and the collector of town rates, 13 Dec. 1768, again a constable, 11 Dec. 1769 and 13 Dec. 1770, as "Lebbeus Hills." His name thereafter appears in these records under the same spelling, serving as constable, 12 Dec. 1771 and 8 Dec. 1772, as tything man, 15 Dec. 1778 and as a surveyor of highways, 18 Dec. 1780, this last being repeated as 15 Dec. 1780, after which there is no further mention of him.* (Colchester Recds., Vol. I: 155, 222, 223, 225, 226, 228 (2), 231, 233, 236, 249, 255; Vol. II., 1780-1829, early pages not paginated.)

From the above source, it is interesting to learn that, 7 Feb. 1782, Colchester was a small town, there being then 1675 males and 1690 females.

Returning to land record evidence, we find Lebbeus buying land in 1767 and 1768, as follows:

29 Apr. 1767, Niles Coleman, of Colechester, for £7-15-00, sold "Lebbeus Hills," of same, about four acres there in the parish of New Marlboro; wit: Daniel and Joel Hosford; ack. same day; recd. 14 May 1767. 21 June 1768, Samuel Kellogg, of same, for a like sum, conveyed to "Lebbeus Hills," of same, about four acres in the parish of New Marlboro; wit: Niles Coleman and Ebenezer Strong; ack. same day; recd. 30 June 1768. (Colchester Deeds, 8: 642, 332.)

A brief survey of the records of the Justices Court for Colchester, 1767-1790 †, reveals that:

18 June 1770, Lebbeus Hills acted as attorney for Jonathan Hollister in a case of debt against Jonas Wilder; execution granted 25 July 1770. 31 Mar. 1772, Lebbeus Hills, of Colchester, was sued by Prince Brewster as attorney for Hosea Foot, in the amount of £5-10-03, per note dated 30 Sept. 1771; execution granted 18 Apr. 1772. 30 May 1772, Lebbeus Hills, of Colchester, owed a small sum: £2-08-07, to Asa Graves, of same, per note dated 31 Mar. 1772; execution granted 26 June 1772. 15 Sept. 1772, Lebbeus Hills, of Colchester, owed Nathaniel Harris, of same, £14-17-00-02, due per note of 4 Sept. 1771; execution granted but date not cited. (29 Oct. 1772, Elijah Hills was sued for a small sum, execution granted 10 Nov. 1772.) Finally, insofar as these records are concerned, 21 June 1773, Lemuel Fitch and Ebenezer Street owed Lebbeus Hills for £7-03-05, per note of same date [?]; execution granted 24 June 1773.

In the interim and later, he again appears in the land records:

7 Nov. 1772, Thomas Carrier, of Colechester, for £15, sold "Lebbeus Hills," of same, thirteen acres and fifty rods in the parish of Marlboro; wit: Daniel and Dudley Hosford; ack. same day, recd. * As the Marlboro Town Recds., commence Oct. 1803, they have not as yet been covered, for Asahel left there before 1800, and presumably his father either died or left there soon after 1787. I may decide to examine them later.

for £15, by warranty conveyance; wit: Epaphras Lord, J.P., and Dorothy Lord; ack. 5 May, and recd. 18 May, 1773. (Colchester Deeds, 9: 44, 66.)

The following deed helps to prove his wife's identity:

8 Mar. 1774, "We Lebbeus Hills & Hannah Hills both of Colchester," for £10, conveyed to Amasa Brown, of same, three and a quarter acres there, bounded S. by Ezra Brown, W. by heirs of Lydia Brown "Alice Avery" [alias Avery], decd., N. by land which was Jesse Brown's, E. by Lemuel Fitch, "together with ye tenth Part of ye house & Barn which was our Hon^d Fathers George Brown Late of Colchester Decd"; both sign; wit: Epaphras Lord and Thomas Fitch; ack. same day and recd. 16 Aug. 1782. (ibid., 10: 276.)

The Revolutionary War commenced with the Battle of Lexington and Concord, 19 Apr. 1775. Lebbeus Jr., see later, served as a drummer boy, in 1776.

Lebbeus himself served from Marlborough Society, in Colchester, Militia, 13th company and 12th regiment, as per orders of the General Assembly of Connecticut of October 1774*, for twelve half-days training, being paid in June 1775, on the 9th, the receipt being dated 16th, June 1775. (Conn. Archives, Rev. War, 1763-1789, ser. 1, vol. 2A: 25, 25b.)†

It will be noted in the original that Lebbeus' brother, "Nobels Hills," served with him in this local militia service, see second column, Lebbeus name being the last name in the first column.† Vide ante for Nobles, who died before 15 Mar. 1778, when their father, Ephraim, drew his will. This will was proved 3 Aug. 1778, with Lebbeus eventually acting as sole executor, as has been explained in detail. Doubtless his concern with the estate, and settlement thereof, prevented any further military duty.

In 1780, Lebbeus again appears in the deeds:

6 June 1780, Elijah and Grace Hills, of East Windsor, Conn., sold to Lebbeus Hills, of Colchester, land in latter place west of Dickensons Stream, said land being given to them by their hond. father, William Marriner, late of Colchester, decd., containing about five and a half acres; both sign; it was bounded N. by land given by said Marriner to Abigail Beebe and S. land given to Sarah Dickenson, etc.; wit: Samuel Fish and Eben^r Russell; ack. same day; recd. [no day] July 1780. 18 Aug. 1780, Lebbeus Hills, of Colchester, for £10, sold Thomas Hills, of same, the same property; signs; wit: Joel Fox and Isaac Brown; ack. same day; recd. 15 Jan. 1781. (Colchester Deeds, 10: 108, 137.)

In 1783, "Lebbeas Hills" was a creditor of the estate of Hezekiah Kneeland, late of Colchester, deceased. (Colchester Dist. Probate, 1929.)‡

* Conn. State Recds., 14: 327.

‡ See my Kneeland Notes, at the N. E. H. G. Society, compiled for Mr. Hills, and given by him, as were the Hinckley Notes and the Bentley Notes, to the said Society. All three manuscripts were originally part of the Hills Notes.

His final recorded deed in Colchester was made the next year:

31 Mar. 1784, Lebbeus Hills, of Colchester, for £150, sold to Elisha Lord, of same, two pieces of land there "in the Society of Marlborough," containing about ninety acres; one piece bounded by "Ebin" Strong, Eleazer Carter, said Lord and Daniel Kellogg; the other piece lying the opposite side of the highway "against my dwelling house," bounded by David Miller, etc.; warranty conveyance; signs; no r.d.; wit: David Miller and Elijah Kellogg; ack. same day; recd. 2 Apr. 1784. (10: 421.)

This is our last record for Lebbeus with absolute proof that he was alive; moreover, by this deed, he sold out most of his property in Colchester but apparently did not include the house in this sale. Ephraim had originally purchased, in two lots, ninety seven acres in Colchester, 27 Feb. 1760, and bought four more of his son, Lebbeus, 5 May 1773. He built a house apparently on one of the said lots, and by his will of 15 Mar. 1778, gave his wife, Lydia, the improvement of one half this real estate and the east end of the dwelling house, son Lebbeus was to have the other half of the house and after his mother's death the rest of the house and land. The widow's portion of the land was estimated at about thirty five acres, 12 July 1779. Lebbeus must have acquired land in Colchester, either by town grant or by some sale or gift, not of record, for, 29 Mar. 1762, he sold twelve acres there; however, his wife Hannah joined him in this sale, so that it may well be it was her inheritance. In 1767, Lebbeus had four acres sold him which he at once sold or mortgaged. Again in 1772, he bought and sold (in 1773) some thirteen acres. The 1774 deed in which his wife Hannah appears was a quitclaim on her rights. In 1780, Lebbeus bought and sold an identical small piece of land.

So, after 31 Mar. 1784, Lebbeus held evidently the home place consisting of the dwelling house and under ten acres of land. There is no further action in either the Colchester or the Marlborough (after that town was formed in 1803) deeds for our Lebbeus; what became of the house and adjacent land, did a child automatically succeed to the same? Was there a deed of gift, with an agreement for life care and maintenance that was never recorded? Of Lebbeus' known sons to reach maturity, all left Marlborough but son Ephraim. Recall that in 1784, Lebbeus was but forty-five years of age, what became of him? There is no further record in any of the many sources consulted.

We do know that, 23 Apr. 1786, a petition was signed in Colchester by Lebbeus Hills *Jr. And Taintor's 1864 Colchester, page 156, cites: Polls in Marlborough Society, 1787, include both Lebbeus Hills Jr. and Thomas Hills. Also, as we shall see in this son's account, in 1792, he appears as Jr., in the Chatham deeds, to which town he removed, but not in 1809. It would then seem probable that our Lebbeus Sr. was alive as late as 21 Sept. 1792. He does not appear as head of a family in 1790, in Connecticut or elsewhere. The Lebbeus listed that year in Glastonbury was the son. There is no settlement of Lebbeus Sr.'s estate, nor that of his widow's, in Connecticut Probate. The land records of Hebron, Colchester, Marlborough, Glastonbury and Chatham have all been covered and with a negative result.*

* Conn. Archives, Travel, 1670-1788, ser. I, vol. 3: 237C., C. S. L., of which a photo copy is included in my Hills Notes.

The census records for 1800, 1810 and 1820 have been examined for all the above noted towns and no male or female, over forty-five, appears in the records of Lebbeus Hills' sons, except in the family of son, Ephraim, of Marlborough, 1810 and 1820, who in both years had a female over forty-five, in his family, evidently his mother. In 1810, Ephraim had no male over forty-five with him; in 1800, Marlborough was part of Colchester, but Ephraim is not listed therein. The records of the sons-in-law, insofar as census is concerned, were also covered.†

There are a number of copies of the Marlborough Parish, or Society, Church Records. There is the Talcott, or Colonial Dames, copy at the Conn. Historical Society, and a photostatic copy (originally made by Myrtle A. Jones, of Hebron, in 1901 and loaned to the Conn. State Library, for purposes of photostating, in 1939, by the late Charles R. Hale). There is the original Robbins "copy" at C. S. L., and in 1952, there was printed in the D. A. R. Magazine, The American Monthly, copies of the baptisms, 1749-1833 only. Not only do these various copies all vary somewhat, but what is so important in this search, there are no marriages at all in any of them!

The organization of this Congregational Church and Parish has already been fully explained. The early records were simply not kept, but in the Winter of 1798-1799, while serving there as a supply preacher, Thomas Robbins, then a candidate for the ministry, became concerned over this lack. And, as best he could, he gathered the records, mainly relying on verbal accounts, with personal trips to see the older inhabitants and members, entering the result in a book, which, in his own hand, is now at the Conn. State Library. Portions of this "Diary" have been published and in this appears, under date of 16 Apr. 1799: "Finished with the Church Records. I have done much more to them than I expected." Virtually the same remark appears in the original book in his own hand. From Mrs. Townsend's careful search of this original, the following items were gleaned:

* Microfilm at C. S. L., covered by Mrs. Townsend; I personally examined deeds in the towns of Lebanon and Colchester, in 1954.

† Simeon Young, of Chatham, in 1800, had a female over 45 in his home but not in 1810.

The above records are not all quoted. I have underscored the death of a "Widdow Hills," who died in Marlborough, 21 Jan. 1828, aged "90" — that is, aged ninety years and three months.* This, of course, is the death record of Hannah (Brown) Hills, widow of Lebbeus Hills Sr., and the mother of our Asahel Hills, whom she outlived. She was born, we recall, in Colchester, 28 Oct. 1738. It is said that there is no settlement of her estate, apparently, in either land or probate records.

As to the two deeds of her son Lebbeus Jr., which are important to us in placing an approximate date of death for her husband, Lebbeus Sr., brief abstracts follow:

21 Sept. 1792, David Clark, of Chatham, Conn., for £30, sold "Lebbeus Hills Jr.," of same, about three acres there, in Easthampton Society, with a dwelling house thereon, also one half of a barn; wit: John Clark and James Bill; ack. same and recd. 18 Oct. 1799. (Chatham Deeds, 9: 514.)

8 June 1809, "Libeas Hills" [no Jr., follows his name], of Chatham, for $200, sold [his son] "Chancy Hills," of same, a certain piece of land in Chatham Easthampton Society, containing ten to twelve acres, with a dwelling house and a barn thereon; same bounds as in the 1792 purchase; signs as "Libbeus Hills"; wit: David White and John Bottom; ack. same day and recd. 10 Oct. 1809. (ibid., 14: 134.)

A copy of the Colchester Town Vital Records made there personally by me, from the original records, and certified by the Town Clerk,† follows, after which, we consider Lebbeus' large family of children.

Volume One, page 22, Colchester Vital Records, Colchester, Conn., originals:

Obediah Hosford's reg^t that march^d in Sept 1776 to East Chester to join Gen^l Washington's Army" includes "Libbeus Hills Jr Drummer." (Coll. Conn. Hist. Soc., 8: 160, pub. 1901; also 12: 370, pub. 1909.)* We have already noted his petition in Marlboro Parish of Colchester, 23 Apr. 1786, signed as "Libeus Hills Jur." † And we have mentioned that the polls in that parish, or society, in 1787, included Lebbeus Hills Jr. His two eldest children were bapt. in the Eastbury Ch., in 1790, and he appears therefore as of Glastonbury, in the census of 1790, with one male over 16, one under and two females. "Lebbeus" and wife Mary owned the Covenant and were admitted to full communion with the Eastbury Ch., 30 Oct. 1790, the day these two children were bapt. therein, but they soon removed to Chatham, Conn., where their children are recorded in the town records, 1793-1808; this town, estb. in 1767, had its name changed to East Hampton as late as 1915. A word about this Eastbury Ch., from which there is no record of Lebbeus' dismission: it was established May 1731, as Eastbury, or 2d Soc., in Glastonbury ‡; perhaps Polly Gibson's people were members. There are no deeds for this Lebbeus in Colchester, Marlboro or Glastonbury. From the Chatham 1st Ch. Recds., 1: 126; 2: 37, at C. S. L., we note Lebbeus Hills, a member in 1792, was dismissed in 1810, and a separate list states that he removed to another church, place not stated, in 1810. This is substantiated by the deeds and census records. Note that in 1792, Lebbeus Jr., of Chatham, bought a dwelling house there, part of a barn and land in the Easthampton Society, which he sold, in 1809, sans the "Jr.," to (his son), Chauncey Hills. (Chatham Deeds, 9: 514; 14: 134.) In 1800, we find in Chatham, Middlesex Co., Conn., p. 386: "Lebias Hill" with one male and one female, 26-45, one male under 10, and one male and one female, 10-16, in his family; but he is not listed there in 1810 or 1820. Unfortunately the 1810 census for Oneida Co., N. Y. is not divided into towns and but the 1st initial of the given name is cited, the only "L" Hills, or Hill, thereof, does not check, in sex or numbers, with Lebbeus' known family. However, 3 Nov. 1811, Lebbeus Hills and wife, Polly, were admitted to the United Ch., of Paris, Oneida Co., N. Y., and were later dismissed from same, but no place is given to which they moved, and no date is given; this church was formed, 8 Jan. 1810. (Paris Ch. Recds., 261, 262, 283, 271, 260, *D. A. - xv. DAVID, bapt. 1784. A David appears in the 1800 and the 1810 census in Chatham, in both years having a female over 45 in his family, but as David was but 16 in 1800, and his sisters married or dead by that year, this David of the census is an older man, and probably connected with the Daniel Hills family. A David bought fifteen acres in Marlboro, which as of Chatham, he mortgaged in 1808 to James Wadsworth of Geneseo, N. Y. (Marlboro Deeds, 1: 134.) In 1816, Daniel Hills of Blandford, Mass., quits claim to land in Chatham, bounded by Ackley heirs, to a David Hills of Chatham; this David and a David Jr., had further dealings in this land in 1820 and 1821. (Chatham Deeds, 18: 99; 17: 362, 364; 19: 371) These references are obviously not to our David, b. 1784. The David Hills who d. 25 Apr. 1804, aged 18, Chatham (East Hampton) Church Records probably applies.

These pages have dealt, briefly, with the fifteen children of Lebbeus Hills Sr., by his wife, Hannah Brown, with the exception of Asahel, their fourth child, whose account is presented on the following pages. A number of these children died young, but Lebbeus and Asahel lived to have children of their own, and went to York State, where both were living in Paris, Oneida County in 1811. Rozel, Hannah, Lucy (two of the name died in infancy) died young, and probably either Alice or Hannah did, moreover we have no further record for these two. Then we come to Lydia and Polly, both of whom lived to marry, remained in Connecticut, and had issue. Many of the latter's children settled in Allegany County, N. Y., which might point a chance for further research on what became of Asahel's widow. I think Oliver died in 1779, which brings us to Ephraim, who remained in Marlborough, where he died as late as 1848, and with whom I think the widow Hannah (Brown) Hills lived. We have no definite record for Silas after his baptism in 1780, nor for David, after his baptism in 1784, perhaps they also died or left the State? Russell remained and he also was buried in Marlborough in 1831, although a resident of nearby Chatham.

The children were evidently fond of brother David, for Polly, Ephraim and Asahel all named children "David." Ephraim named a son, Asahel. And among Asahel's children was Lydia, for his sister.

4. ASAHEL⁴ HILLS (*Lebbeus*³, *Ephraim*², *Samuel*¹), born in Colchester, Conn., 29 Jan. 1766, baptised there in the Marlborough Parish, February or March, 1770, died in Paris, Oneida County, N. Y., between 22 Oct., and 30 Dec., 1811, testate. He married, undoubtedly in Connecticut, about 1790, POLLY ———, who survived, her identity and death as yet unknown.*

Before we consider his career, it seems reasonable and proper to present below the facts concerned in the positive identification of DAVID HILLS, as a son of this Asahel Hills:

Briefly, in June 1953, I was commissioned to prove, if possible, the parentage of the David Hills, who appears, as unplaced, in the 1906 Hills Family, by W. S. Hills, and Thomas Hills, page 600. This genealogy states that David was born in Ithaca, N. Y., in 1806, named his sons, Kneeland† and Delos, had brothers Hoel and Thomas, and sisters Lucy (who married a Coates), and Eunice (who married Joseph Allen) and removed to Willoughby, Lake County, Ohio. [If a brother Thomas, he died young, and sister Eunice married James Allen.]

Ithaca, now in Tompkins County, was combed thoroughly, with the able assistance of Helen (Finch) Smith of that city, who searched all possible unpublished sources, such as deeds, surrogate, church records, as also in the various counties that constitute the "ancestry" of Tompkins County, all with a negative result. William-Galbraith Smith, of Washington, D. C., helped with the census and pension records at the National Archives, and again we gained nothing.

* Inasmuch as she had two grandsons of the given name of Kneeland, it seems extremely probable that she was born a Kneeland or had Kneeland ancestry. See my Kneeland Notes, at N. E. H. G. Society.

† Kneeland spelled incorrectly, as "Neiland."

But, in the course of these surveys, Mr. Smith consulted with Leon-C. Hills, a personal friend of his, and an author, who has amassed a manuscript on the Hills family, with many additions and corrections to the 1906 work, named above, and its 1908 Supplement. Mr. Leon-C. Hills informed Mr. Smith that the names of Hoel and Kneeland appeared in the family of an Asahel Hills, of Villenova, Chautauqua County, N. Y., who by wife Sally [sic] Wright, had: Hoel, Kneeland, Dora and Harriet; that the said Hoel, born there 23 Jan. 1819, by wife Hannah, daughter of John Dye, had Jane, George, David, who died aged one year, and Milton Hills. He also recalled that the names of Kneeland and Delos Hill appeared in a roster of Ohio men who served in the Civil War, which fact is correct. So I had Mr. Smith follow up these clues by a search of census and pension records, in Washington, and of the deeds and surrogate records in Mayville, county seat of Chautauqua County, the results of which are included herein.

Surely it was more than a mere coincidence, that our David Hills had a brother Hoel and a son Kneeland and that this Asahel had sons Hoel and Kneeland! Were David and Asahel possibly connected, were they brothers?

Fortunately we have at the New England Historic Genealogical Society, a typed copy, made in 1923, of gravestone inscriptions in a small yard in Willoughby Center, Lake County, Ohio. From this unpublished source, I discovered that not only was Eunice (Hills) Allen and her husband, James Allen, buried there, with their dates of birth and death on their stone, but also her sister, Lydia and her brother, Hoel. Mr. Smith then secured the census records, 1850-1860-1870-1880, for this group.

Before 20 Dec. 1908, death records in Ohio were recorded at the county seat, if recorded at all. The only death record I have been able to secure of the Hills family of Willoughby, was through the courtesy of the Deputy Clerk of Probate for Lake County, Ohio, at Painesville, Miss Bertha-E. Clark, who secured the death record of Eunice (Hills) Allen.* Miss Clark stated that there were no estates for the family excepting James Allen, vide post; she also most kindly read the obituaries in the local Painesville Telegraph, at the Public Library, for a month after each death, but found nothing. A survey of deeds and a re-check of the probate records, etc., was later undertaken for us by a Cleveland, Ohio, genealogist, vide post, and with positive results.

And that valuable death record of Eunice (Hills) Allen, who died in Willoughby, 24 Apr. 1887, aged eighty-nine years and five months, states she was born in Oneida County, N. Y. Her birth, 1 Oct. 1797, appears on her gravestone in Willoughby. Again, we have at the

* Photo copy of the certified death recd. included in the Hills Notes.

New England Historic Genealogical Society, typed abstracts of Oneida County Wills, in which source, appears the will of Asahel Hills, 1811, of Paris, naming his daughters as Polly, Eunice, Lydia and Lucy; sons as Asahel, John-A. [sic], David and Joel [sic]; and executors as wife Polly and Lebbeus Hills. (Barber's Abstracts of Oneida Co., N. Y., Wills, 1: 17.) *

Thus was secured, after some six months research by myself and others (part time), the identification of our David Hills, born in Paris, near Utica [not in Ithaca, N. Y., about 1804, as a son of Asahel ⁴, of Colchester, Conn., and Paris, N. Y., a nephew of Lebbeus ⁴, and a grandson of Lebbeus ³.

Returning then to the subject of this account, our David's father, Asahel, we have noted, in his father Lebbeus Hills' account, that "Asahel" — never "Ashbel" — for his correct name appears in his birth record (personally copied by me in Colchester), 29 Jan. 1766, and in his baptismal record, in 1770, either in February or in March, noted in the original records of the Marlborough Church, or Parish, by Mrs. Townsend, at the Conn. State Library, son of Lebbeus and Hannah Hills, appears in no other records in Connecticut, thus far discovered. In 1784, his father's last appearance in the Colchester Deeds, Asahel was eighteen; of full age, 29 Jan. 1787, he was not included among the list of Polls in the Marlborough District in Colchester, that same year. It would seem that he had left that area by then? He does not appear in the Colchester, Marlborough (from 1803), Glastonbury, Hebron or Chatham Deeds. Unfortunately, Connecticut has no county system of recording its deed and probate evidence. That he was still of Connecticut we know, for his son, Asahel, gives his birth as 1793 and in Connecticut, vide post. Asahel's marriage is not of record and the Marlborough Church Records contain no marriages; a great loss in this search.

Between 1793 and 1 Oct. 1797, Asahel went to what is now Paris, Oneida County, N. Y., but has no deeds recorded in Utica.† Much of York State was held by renters who leased from wealthy land owners, at that period. Also many land transactions were never recorded there.

Paris is now not much more than a hamlet in pretty hill country, and is a farming community. Saquoit a village in same is much larger and in the valley. Paris is about fifteen miles from Utica and is bordered on the east by Litchfield, in Herkimer County, which is of importance to us. Mrs. Anna Zimmerman Jenks, Town Historian of Paris, was unable to give us further data; she reported there are but a few scraps of the Paris Town Records, ante 1880. Possibly the school lists, if they have survived, might be of assistance?

* Copy of the full will, attested, corrects the errors, vide post.

Note: The results of research in Philadelphia, Pa., and Cincinnati, Ohio, will be considered in David's account, both failed to solve his parentage.

† Paris was set off, 10 Apr. 1792, from Whitestown (formed 1788), mainly settled from Conn. Herkimer formed 16 Feb. 1791 from Montgomery Co., but when Oneida was set off, 15 Mar. 1798, from Herkimer, Oneida retained the records, the co. seat now being at Utica. Asa Gray, the famous Botanist, was a native of Paris, which was first settled about 1789. Mrs. Merritt did the research there for us, consulting land and surrogate records at the Court House, and copies of church, cemetery and other such sources at the local library, made by the D. A. R., and in her own personal collections.

Apparently Asahel Hills and his wife were not members of the Paris Congregational Church, which is still of that faith and did not change to Presbyterian as did so many of the early New York Congregational parishes. An offshoot of this church, formed in 1791, was the Union Society of Paris, formed in January 1810, in Saquoit, in the eastern part of the township of Paris. This has now become Presbyterian. A copy of the records of this church, made by the D.A.R., has already been utilized in the account of Asahel's brother, Lebbeus, vide ante, but all items will now be repeated here:

Query, was the first Polly Hills named in this United Society of Paris church record Asahel's wife, or does it refer to Lebbeus' wife of that name?

Turning to such positive evidence as has been gleaned, we do find Asahel Hills appearing in Paris, Oneida County, in the census of 1800, head of a family consisting of one male and one female, between 26 and 45, one male, between 16 and 26 *, two males under 10 and three females under 10.

The next federal census, that of 1810, does not help us, for not only is Oneida County not divided into townships, but the Christian names of those listed are indicated by the first letter only, and that hard to decipher. Also, Asahel's known family at that time included not only himself and his wife, and in 1810, he was aged forty-four and his wife the same, 26-45 bracket, but at least these children: two sons under ten, one son about fifteen, one daughter thirteen, two daughters under ten; if the older children, Polly and Asahel were at home in 1810, there was then to be added one female, about nineteen, and one male of

* Was this a younger brother of Asahel's or of his wife's? The only other Hills in Paris in 1800 was Elisha Hills who is identified. There was also an Asa Hill. For Elisha Hills see 1906 Hills Fam., p. 42, which repeats the error in the 1875 Hart Gen., that Paris is in Herkimer Co.; Elisha m. Polly Hart.

seventeen. And none of those listed seem to fulfill these requirements, with the exception, of an "E" Hills, who had two males and one female under 10, one male and two females between 10 and 16, one male, 16 to 26 and one male and one female between 26 and 45. At any event, we know that Asahel was still of Paris in 1810, for he drew his will there in 1811, and he was certainly there in 1800.

In Jones' Annals and Recollections of Oneida County, published in 1851, he writes, page 302, "A man by the name of Hill kept the first boarding house in a log building," and as late as 1801, it was the only building within a mile of Paris Furnace.

This reference to a "Hill" may really be to a "Hills" but there is nothing to show us to which Hills, and we have already noted that in 1800, there were two Hills and one Hill listed in Paris as heads of families.

One further positive record, besides the 1800 census, for Asahel, before he died, is his service as an officer in the local militia in 1803:

Jesse Hale, Adjutant and "Asahel Hills Quartermaster," served in 1803 in Major Commandant Joseph Farwell's (Farenrell) Battalion, Oneida County. (*N. Y. Council of Appointment, 1784-1821, Military Records., 1: 688.)

We have considered, briefly, Lebbeus Hills Jr., eldest brother of our Asahel Hills, whereby it was noted that Lebbeus sold out his real property in Chatham, Conn., in 1809, and was dismissed from the East Hampton Parish there, in 1810. Lebbeus and his wife, Polly, were admitted members of the Union Society Church, in Paris, 3 Nov. 1811, and were later, after 1815, dismissed from that church. We do not know where they removed to. They had twins baptised in the East Hampton Church, in 1808, and between 1815 and 1823, a twelfth child was baptised for them in Paris, very probably between 1815 and 1820, as Lebbeus does not appear in the 1820 census in Paris. He does appear in the will of his brother, Asahel, in 1811, being named co-executor with his sister-in-law, Polly, the widow. Note that both Lebbeus and Asahel had wives of the same name, also Elisha Hills of Paris, a contemporary, had wife, Polly. (Polly is of course the diminutive of Mary.)

All of which brings us to our last record of Asahel, his will, which was drawn, 22 Oct. 1811 and proved 30 Dec. 1811. An attempt was made to have this copied will, as recorded in the surrogate volume, as no original papers are extant, photostated, but it was reported that the record was so faint that any such idea would be better discarded. This was a disappointment. So, a certified copy was obtained but was useless as the officials there are evidently unable to read the old writing. Therefore, Mrs. Merritt was requested to make a verbatim copy of this will and any other records pertaining to the estate and attest to her copy before a Notary. This was accomplished and a photostatic copy of her attested copy appears in the Hills Notes, of which a copy follows: *

“In the name of God amen . . . I Asahel Hills of the Town of Paris in the County of Oneida and State of New York being in a weak state of body. but at present of sound memory do make and publish this my last will and Testament in manner following (Viz) In the first place I order and direct that my Funeral charges be Paid. In the next place I give and bequeath unto my Wife Polly Hills one third part of all my real and personal Estate, after my debts are paid, during her life, excepting my farming utensils which I give and bequeath unto my two sons Asahel Hills & John K Hills I also give and bequeath unto my two sons Asahel and John K Hills the remaining part of my real estate on condition that they attend to bring up my two Youngest Sons David Hills & Hoel Hills and keep them at school until they arrive at the age of fourteen years and then put them to some Mechanic to learn a trade, and Pay them fifty Dollars each when they arrive at the age of Twenty one years.

I also give and bequeath unto my two Sons Asahel and John K. Hills the remainder of my personal estate after my debts are paid and my Wife has received her third part as above. And I order my two sons Asahel & John K. Hills to pay unto my four Daughters Polly, Eunice, Lucy, & Lydia Hills the sum of fifty Dollars each when they arrive at the age of Eighteen years; And until they arrive at that age I direct my Sons Asahel & John K. Hills to take Care and Support them and give them Propper Schooling. I also appoint Lebbeus Hills and my wife Polly Hills Executor and Excutrix to this my last will and testament; And I hereby order my said executors to attend and see. that this my last will is performed according to what is above written. I hereby revoke all wills by me before made; In witness whereof I have set my hand and seal to this . . . my last will and testament in presence of the subscribing Witnesses Paris 22nd October 1811

The witnesses, R. Blount, Nael Jones and Nathaniel Hoadley proved the will 30 Dec. 1811 before the Surrogate, in which the first named is called Rollin Blount. (Oneida Surrogate Recds., 1: 314.)

Now it would appear, from the above instrument, that the two sons, Asahel and John-K. Hills were of full age, and if so, were born before 1790. Yet in the census of 1855, Asahel, then of Villenova, gave his age as sixty-two. So, if Asahel was born in 1787 and his brother in 1789, their father was married in 1786. Later research might reveal the correct years of birth of these children. It is certain that the two sons, David and Hoel, were born after 1797, as under fourteen in 1811, and that their four sisters, Polly, Eunice, Lucy and Lydia, were born after 1793, as under eighteen in 1811. The only birth records we have are those for Eunice and Lydia, 1 Oct. 1797 and 26 Oct. 1801, respectively, and that of Hoel, who died 14 Jan. 1867, aged sixty years and six months. These records appear on their grave-stones. Due to these uncertainties, I have given the approximate date for Asahel's marriage as "about 1790," although "about 1786" might be more nearly correct.

* Mrs. Merritt reported no guardianship recds. until 1870. This is most unfortunate as Asahel's children were nearly all minors at his death.

Son Asahel was old enough to serve as a teamster in the War of 1812-1814, as claimed by his widow, although her application for bounty land was rejected (vide post), from which we learn that he married, 1 Oct. 1815, in Litchfield, Herkimer County, N. Y. Litchfield was bounded west by Paris in Oneida County, which indicates that the Asahel Hills' heirs were still of Paris in 1815. And we also know that Lebbeus Hills, Asahel's brother was still there in 1815. By 1820, both families had removed, the only persons of the name then in Paris, as heads of families, being Alden Hill, Jabez Hill, Elisha Hills, William Hills and a Dan Hills. As Asahel Jr., settled in Chautauqua County, in 1818, possibly the widow and her younger children also removed there? Or did they go to Jefferson County.*

The items obtained that apply to Asahel Jr., appear under his account; undoubtedly further research would give us more facts about him but this is not needed as our interest is in his younger brother, David. The latter, we have learned, was under fourteen, in 1811, was to be supported and taught a trade and when he arrived at full age was to have $50. He did learn a trade — printing; but where? Between 1811 and about 1841, when he is stated to have appeared in Philadelphia, Pa., is a blank of thirty years!

Mention has been made of David's siblings, who went from York State to Ohio, where they lived, from at least 1850, in Willoughby, a town about fifteen miles from the county seat, Painesville, Lake County, Ohio, and east of Cleveland. Originally called Charlton, Willoughby was formed in 1814 as Chagrin, the name being changed to Willoughby in 1834. Lake County was set off from Geauga and Cuyahoga Counties, 6 Mar. 1840, before our family went there. A study of the census records of Willoughby follows:

1850, Lake Co., 28: 157: James Allen, aged 45, farmer, worth $1800, b. R. I. [sic, he was of R. I. ancestry], wife Eunice, aged 40, b. N. Y.; Amy, aged 23 and Samuel, aged 16, both b. N. Y.†

1860, Lake Co., 37: 305: James Allen, aged 51, farmer, worth $3000; $1000; wife Eunice, aged 60; Daniel Allen, aged 62 [brother]; Leander Allen, aged 19 [prob. a nephew]; and Lydia "Hill," aged 50, all b. N. Y. [For Leander vide post under Eunice.]

1870, Lake Co., 34: 181: James Allen, aged 62, farmer, real $6500; personal $2000; wife Eunice Allen, aged 71, keeping house and Lydia Hills, aged 68, doing housework, all b. in N. Y.

* Jefferson set off from Oneida in 1805. Eunice probably married in Jefferson Co.

† Hoel Hills, brother of Eunice and Lydia, buried 1867, Willoughby, is not there in census 1850 or 1860, nor is his widow until 1880.

1880, Lake Co., vol. not cited, p. 61, Family #300: James Allen, aged 72, retired farmer, b. N. Y., both parents b. same; wife Eunice, aged 81, keeping house; Delia M. "Hills," aged 73, sister-in-law, boarder and Lydia Hills, aged 76 sister-in-law, boarder, all b. N. Y., and parents b. same [sic].*

And thus we have full proof that between 1850 and 1860, Lydia Hills joined her sister in Willoughby, Ohio, and that between 1870 and 1880, the Allen family was augmented by Delia M. Hills, presumably the widow of Hoel Hills, a brother of Eunice and Lydia, who died in Willoughby in 1867.

In the Hills Notes are photostatic copies of the pages of interest to us, made from the 1923 Philip-L. Cobb typed copy of the epitaphs in the Willoughby Center Cemetery, through the courtesy of the New England Historic Genealogical Society, who possess the full copy. A 1928 copy of the same graveyard, made by Rawson, which is at the Western Reserve Historical Society, in Cleveland, Ohio, calls this the Willoughby Ridge Cemetery. Both copies, 1923 and 1928, have been checked with each other and neither is fully correct in regard to the inscriptions in which we are interested. Also, as part of the Hills Notes are photographs of the stones to the memory of the three Hills: Eunice, Lydia and Hoel, which were made in September 1955, courtesy of Thomas Mazich of Willoughby, who describes the graveyard as the Willoughby Center Cemetery, in the incorporated Willoughby Hills Village in the City of Willoughby. Mr. Mazich also made a verbatim copy of the stones, of which a single polished marble shaft, quite large, gives the inscription of James Allen and his two wives, the Hills sisters:

[Front]	"James Allen 1808-1896
[Right]	"Lydia Hills Wife of James Allen Born Oct. 26 1801 Died June 22 1889

* A J. C. Hills ran a store in Willoughby, as see the 1878 History of Geauga and Lake Counties, 256, and appears there in the 1850 and the 1860 census. The store is still extant but under the name of HILL. In 1860, he was 51, a grocer, born Mass., wife Martha, 50, born Ohio, Belle, 22, Lisander, 19, Frank, 14, and Augusta, 10, all born in Ohio, and as "Hills." This was John-Case Hills, who died 6 Feb. 1885, aged 65 years, one month; his wife, Martha (Meredith) Hills, died 26 Jan. 1885, aged 61 years, 8 months, both are buried in the Willoughby "Center" Cemetery, where these children are also buried: Reuben-Byron, died 1857, aged 4; Lysander-Bascom, died 1871, aged 21; and Mary-Arabella, died 1889, aged 41.

A Jabez Hill, who lived in Willoughby, in 1850, aged 60, born in N. Y., wife Elizabeth, aged 58, and others, apparently was not related to our family.

There is no stone for Delia M. Hills. It was impossible to take a good photograph of the left side of the Allen shaft.

My surmise is that Polly was born a Kneeland of the Hebron-Colchester-et vic., Kneeland-Neland family, or that her mother was a member of the same, and that she, our Polly, wife of Asahel Hills, and thus the mother of David Hills, was born in Connecticut, between 1765 and 1775, probably about 1770, and was married by 1791, at the latest. If her two eldest sons were of full age in 1811, she was married about 1786, but this seems doubtful.

As I have noted, certainly it was more than a coincidence that David named a son Kneeland †, and that his brother, Asahel Jr., also had a son, Kneeland. We know that this name does not appear among the forbears of their father, Asahel Hills.

As Asahel Jr., himself, presumably the second child, gave the place of his birth as Connecticut, and the year (deduced from his age) as 1793, it is evident that Polly married in, and was undoubtedly from, the very same section of the Nutmeg State as was her husband. By 1797, she and her husband were living in Paris, Oneida County, N. Y., where we know the family continued until at least 1811. Between 1810 and 1822, Polly was a member of the Union Church there and by her husband's will, drawn in 1811, received her thirds for her lifetime, except the farming tools, being also named co-executor.

What names did Polly give her known children? Of these, what names were perhaps from her side of the family? Her husband had a brother, David, and sisters Lucy and Lydia; however little Lucy Hills died aged six, so this name may also come from Polly's family. Hence, these names may well be indicative of Polly's connections: John-K[neeland?], Eunice, and perhaps Lucy.

* This agrees with her death record which gives her age as 89 years and 5 months and her birthplace as Oneida Co., N. Y.

† "Neiland" states the Hills Family. Note that the Kneelands of Hebron spelled their names as "Neland" and "Neeland" during the 18th century.

As has been pointed out, it is evident that the family of Asabel Hills, that is, the widow and children, left Paris, about 1818, and surely by 1820. It is entirely possible that Polly, the widow, re-married, for she was only about forty-five at the time of her husband's death, and perhaps even younger.

My notes about the Kneeland family have been presented by Mr. Hills to the Conn. State Library, the D. A. R. Library and to the New England Historic Genealogical Society, where they may be consulted.*

At first I thought that our Polly was identical with Molly (another diminutive for Mary), born in Hebron, Conn., in 1774, and baptised in Marlborough Parish, in 1775, child of Joseph and Ruth (Pratt) Kneeland, who had a sister, Eunice Kneeland, born in 1788, etc. But careful research, in Hartford, on which I personally engaged, proved that this Molly married someone else. A great disappointment to me.

Later, for various reasons, I became interested in two Benjamin Kneelands, both of whom I eliminated from being the father of our Polly.

The search of the copy books for all Kneeland estates in Colchester Probate has not been made. For in estates before about 1820, it is essential to cover both the Files (accomplished) and the copy books, or volumes, to secure the entire story. Often the Files, or documents, were destroyed and of course the bonds were never recorded.

Although this difficult search has thus far proved negative, we have been able to eliminate many possibilities. It would seem that if our Polly was indeed born a Kneeland, the best chances for her are:

A child of Edward ⁴ Kneeland, if so, born between 1759 and 1766, and probably in Vermont. I think that some day Edward warrants a more careful study.

A child of John ⁵ Kneeland (John ⁴), born 1739, if he lived to marry and have children.

A child of Ichabod ⁵ Kneeland (John ⁴), who went to Ballston, now in Saratoga County, N. Y., and who had a Paris, N. Y., connection. He also warrants further research.

We must recall that Polly named a son John-K. Hills. Of course, if her mother was born a Kneeland, the possibilities are many. She had two grandsons who bore the given name of Kneeland and that name is not through her husband's ancestry.

There are chances for further research on the identity of Polly, but these have been put aside, temporarily, in an effort to publish this account of her husband's proven lineage.

HILLS LINEAGE

*Jefferson County **

In the brief account of Eunice (Hills) Allen, certain clues point to this New York County as being the early home of some of the children of Polly Hills. Did the widow Polly go there from Oneida County? Sources easily available to me have been searched but were not helpful, nor was the census; but the deeds and estates have not been covered as yet.

Omaha, Nebraska

In 1898, James Allen, husband of Eunice Hills, had son Samuel-E. Allen, then of Omaha, who married, as of Nebraska City, in 1861. If his age of sixteen in 1850 is correct, he was born in 1834, and was Eunice's own son. In 1899, Samuel-E. Allen was still of Omaha. We should try and locate his heirs, there might be extant a family Bible with its valuable records or some other family records of importance to us.

Chautauqua County

Descendants of Asahel Hills Jr., son of Polly, were living in the very small town of Villenova as late as 1890. It might be possible, by a trip there, or perhaps by writing there, to locate living heirs, who might have a Family Bible or some sort of information about Polly.

As two of Polly's children lived to be really aged, there is the great possibility that she may have also lived to old age; also, as her husband died when she was comparatively young, she undoubtedly remarried, as I have suggested.

In 1811, Asahel was named in his father's will, in 1815 married in the next town to Paris, and in 1818 removed to what became, in 1823, Villenova, formerly Hanover. Young's 1875 Hist. Chautauqua Co., p. 576, states that in the village of Hamlet, said Villenova, Asahel Hills settled first on lot 52, then on lot 36, "deceased. His sons, Hoel and Kneeland G., reside in town." Evidently while still living in Paris, he served in the War of 1812-1814, for which his widow claimed rights to bounty land, rejected, R. 329279-1855: Declaration:

In nearby Pomfret, was an Anson-B. Coats. (4: 89, 87, 120.) In 1830, an Ephraim and our Asahel Hills were in Villenova, the latter had one male and one female 30 to 40, and four children. In 1850, Asahel's listing is omitted, but we find his son, as plain "H" aged 30, farmer, wife Hannah, 30, Jane 6, Milton 3, all b. in N. Y. (9: 97). 5. DAVID ⁵HILLS (Asahel ⁴, Lebbeus ³, Ephraim ², Samuel ¹), born in Paris, Oneida County, near Utica, N. Y., about 1804, died in Cincinnati, Hamilton County, Ohio, 15 Dec. 1862. He married, perhaps in or near Philadelphia, Pa., about 1841, ANNA KIRK, † born in Pennsylvania, in 1821, died in Philadelphia, 12 Feb. 1900, aged seventy-nine, daughter of —— and Susan (——) Kirk.

It has been claimed that Anna Kirk was a Quakeress but the Friends Records, always well kept, do not reveal this fact; probably she had Quaker forbears. Further data about her and her immediate family will be given later in this account.

Mr. Hills, in filling in a genealogical form for the New England Historic Genealogical Society, of which he is a colonial member, stated that David was born in Syracuse, N. Y. [Ithaca, states the 1906 Hills

Family], which we have proved to be Utica, or near Utica. He also stated that David was a scholar and printer, being a founder of the firm of Smith, Driscoll & Hills, of Cincinnati, fore-runner of the American Book Company and American Type Founders. My brief survey of Cincinnati Directories, shows David to have been connected with this firm, but subsequent correspondence with the American Book Company reveals that this firm was never a fore-runner of the latter. Another tradition, that David had attended Harvard, has been discredited. Probably early apprenticed to the printing trade, he may have carried on this work in New York, Ohio, or Pennsylvania; we really know nothing of him, after the mention of him in his father's 1811 will and then of Paris, until his eldest son, Kneeland, was born in Philadelphia, 28 Dec. 1842. It has also been claimed that David came to Philadelphia from Boston, Mass., but thus far no evidence has been ascertained to bear out this idea.

Evidence and proof of the identity of our David Hills, as the son of Asahel and Polly, and a descendant of an old New England family, will not be repeated here.

A search of census, for Philadelphia, 1840 and 1850, failed to reveal David; it does not seem likely that he is the David "Hill" who was of the Middle Ward there in 1840, or the David W. "Hill," of Locust Ward, for their families do not "fit" with what we know about his family.

The services of Lewis-D. Cook, F.A.S.G., of Philadelphia, for research of the Philadelphia career of the family were secured, especially in regard to the marriage of David Hills and Anna Kirk. His report is able and concise, and appears below, although not verbatim:

The marriage of David Hills and Anna Kirk does not appear in these church registers, transcripts of which, indexed, have been examined in the Collections of the Genealogical Society (Philadelphia): Christ, St. James, Gloria Dei, St. Pauls, St. Stephens and St. Andrews, all P. E.; 1st, 2d, 3d, 4th, 5th and 10th Presbyterian; St. Johns, Lutheran; St. Georges, M. E.; Ebenezer, M. E.; 1st Reformed; Frankford Presbyterian; St. Johns, N. Liberties of Philadelphia; also N. Dist. Philadelphia Monthly Meetings of Friends; Marriages Register of Mayor of Philadelphia, several Registers of Aldermen and Justices. The newspaper marriage notices, 1840-1841, have not been abstracted for the Collections of the Society. [Mr. Cook later made a search of marriage notices in the North American, 1840-1841, with negative result; 1842 should also be done.]

The best evidence for the statement that David Hills married Anna Kirk is the fact that she is buried in the plot owned since 1850 by one Susan Kirk, Odd Fellows Cemetery, 23rd and Diamond Streets, Philadelphia, since removed in 1951, to Lawnview Cemetery, Rockledge, Pa. No stone.

Susan Kirk, abovesaid, born in 1793, died 19 May 1865, aged 72, at her residence at the rear of 326 Garden Street, Philadelphia, and was buried on 22nd in her plot, #382, Section S in Odd Fellows Cemetery, abovesaid, which plot, she had acquired by deed of 13 May 1850. She was apparently a widow Kirk, but as a notice of her death is not found in Philadelphia newspapers of 20 and 21 May 1865, and as her estate is not of record in the office of the Philadelphia Register, her status has not been possible to resolve here definitely. Search has also been made in the Philadelphia Deeds, grantors and grantees, with negative results. But she was evidently the Susan Kirk, nurse, of 328 Garden Street, so listed in the Philadelphia Directory for 1864, the year before her death. Susan Kirk, nurse, 3 Baker's Court, first appears in the 1840 issue of said Directory, but a search of the issues for the preceding ten years does not show any Kirk at that address, so it cannot be inferred thereby that her supposed husband had died there by 1840. Susan Kirk, nurse, is thereafter listed in 1842 as of 40 Tammany, in 1845, of 16 Eutaw, in 1846-1847, as of rear of 15 Eutaw, in 1848, as of Walker's Court, not listed in 1850-1851, in 1852 of Walker's Court, in 1853 of same, in 1854-1855, of 1 Short's Court, not listed 1856, in 1857 as of Rukan Street, in 1858 as of rear of 406 Rukan, not listed, 1859-1862, and finally as of rear of 328 Garden Street, in 1863-1864. From the Records of Odd Fellows Cemetery, Philadelphia, it appears that besides daughter Anna Kirk, who died, 12 Feb. 1900, at her residence, 1713 N. Darien Street, Philadelphia, widow of David Hills, no estate on file in Philadelphia and no gravestone; she had daughter Jane Kirk, born in 1818, who died unmarried, 26 Feb. 1888, at the home of her sister, Mrs. Anna Kirk Hills, 822 Carlisle Street, Philadelphia.

(The North American, Philadelphia, Wednesday, 14 Feb. 1900.)

With this report, Mr. Cook enclosed a death certificate of Anna (Kirk) Hills and a letter from the Secretary of the Odd Fellows Cemetery. Later, a death certificate for Jane Kirk and another letter from said Secretary was forwarded.* Notes from his search of Directories of Philadelphia will be given later as the Hills family do not appear therein until after the return of the widow Anna (Kirk) Hills and her children to Philadelphia from their stay of some fifteen years in Cincinnati.†

* I had just secured the services and aid of a most experienced Cincinnati genealogist, Marie Dickoré, A.M., to do some research on the sojourn of the family there, 1853-1868 roughly, when Mr. Hills requested that no more research be made there. I trust that later this can be accomplished. I was and am anxious to secure the correct and full date of birth of David Hills. Perhaps a further search of death notices in local news-files there would reveal his faith and the cemetery in which he is buried, and thus a gravestone or church recd. would reveal this date? It was also suggested that Directories, 1853-1870 be done, to know the exact years the family was there; David's estate and guardianships for his minor children; his land records, and other routine unpublished sources.

David removed to Cincinnati, between 1853, when son George was born in Pennsylvania, according to the 1860 census, and 1856, when he first appears in the Cincinnati Directories. In 1856, we note:

Hills D. & Co. stereotype foundry 141 Main.
Hills David (D. H. & Co.) 125 Cutter.

From 1859 through 1863, the firm of Hills, O'Driscoll & Co., (David H., Cornelius F. O'D.) Stereotype & Electrotype Foundry 141 Main, is listed. Cornelius F. O'Driscoll appears first in the city directory in 1853 and then had a full page advertisement on page 366, in which he states that he had been connected with the type and stereotype foundry of L. Johnson & Company, in Philadelphia, for upwards of twenty years.*

The 1860 census of Cincinnati, 8th ward, volume 26, page 341: David Hills, aged 52, stereotypist, $1000, $1000, born in N. Y., wife Annie, aged 39, born in Pa., as were: "Nyland," 16, Delos 14, Caroline 12, Mary 9 and George 7.

The Directory of 1861 lists him at 152 Cutter Street. His death is not recorded in Cincinnati. In 1884, during the famous riot, the Court House was burned, but Miss Dickoré informs us that not all the records perished. Moreover, she has a well known collection of manuscript copies of church, cemetery, family, etc., records which would be helpful. She discredits the story that Mr. Hills' home was commandeered for a hospital during the Civil War. The Cincinnati Enquirer, issue of 17 Dec. 1862, contains this notice:

"David Hills December 15 at 6 o'clock P.M. David Hills, formerly of Philadelphia, died in the 58th year of his age. His funeral will take place from his late residence No. 78 Betts Street, on Thursday, 18th inst, at 2 o'clock P.M. His friends are respectfully invited to attend. (Philadelphia Ledger please copy.)" †

The 1906 Hills Family states David was born in 1806, the 1860 census would make him born in 1808, the above notice in 1805, thus we have 1805, 1806 and 1808, for the years of his birth. But I place his birth as 1804, vide ante.

His sons, Kneeland and Delos-Charles, both served in the Civil War, of which we have proof gained from the 1887 Ohio Roster, from the former's records at the Adjutant General's Office and from the latter's pension records, vide post; they both enlisted in Cincinnati and both were mustered out from that city, in fact they served in the same company.

Between July 1864 and 1868, the family returned to Philadelphia, and from Mr. Cook's careful survey of the Directories, we know that:

† Miss Helen Moore scanned the Ledger and other Philadelphia papers for obits., but there were none.

1868-1869, Kneeland Hills, hat presser, house at 6 Shaffer's Court, at same address were George Hills, student, and Delos-C. Hills, printer.

1870, Anna Hills, widow of David Hills, house at 926 Nectarine Street.

1874, Anna Hills, nurse, 3229 Darby Road, at same address: George-F. Hills, bookbinder; Delos-C. Hills, compositor, had house at 413 Albion Street.

1875, Anna Hills, widow of David Hills, nurse, at 1009 Nectarine Street, with her was George-F. Hills, bookbinder.

1884-1895, Anna Hills, widow of David Hills, had house at 822 Carlisle Street, with her was George-F. Hills, bookbinder.

1896, Anna, widow of David D. Hills, had house at 1713 Darien Street, also there in 1899. Not listed 1898 and 1900-1901, but was of that address in 1900.

The old Odd Fellows Cemetery was located at 23d and Diamond Streets, in what is known as North Philadelphia but was cleared in 1951 for a Federal Housing Project — all the interments being removed to Lawnview Cemetery in Rockledge, Pa. The Odd Fellows still operate another cemetery at 31st and Lehigh Avenue in North Philadelphia, writes Mr. Cook.

6. DELOS CHARLES⁶ HILLS (*David*⁵, *Asahel*⁴, *Lebbeus*³, *Ephraim*², *Samuel*¹), born in Philadelphia, Pa., 21 Nov. 1846, died there, 22 Nov. 1906. He married there, in St. Patrick's Cathedral, ceremony by the Rev. William O'Hara, D.D., 19 Jan. 1868, MARIA-M. O'CONNOR, born in Ireland, 5 Feb. 1844, died in Philadelphia, 15 Apr. 1928, sister of Thomas O'Connor, parentage unknown.*

His grandson, Francis-J. Hills of Rahway, N. J., in filling in his data for the New England Historic Genealogical Society, in 1953, stated that Delos was born in Cincinnati, Ohio, about 1840, served in the Civil War in the 5th Ohio Infantry, resided after the war in Philadelphia, where he married, about 1867, Maria O'Connor, dying there, 3 Dec. 1906.

The 1906 Hills Family gives the date of Delos' birth as 23 Nov. 1844, his marriage as 14 Jan. 1864, and the dates of birth of three of the four children are also incorrect.

The dates are correct as given in the first paragraph, above, and below are presented the facts and the authorities for the same.

Taken by his parents to Cincinnati, from Philadelphia, between 1853 and 1856, Delos appears there in the census of 1860, as "Delos" aged 14, born in Pennsylvania. Two years later, his father died, at which time the family were residing at 78 Betts Street. The family tradition that their home was an army hospital during the Civil War is doubtful, but they did live very near a large hospital. Miss Marie Dickoré writes, in part, about this, in 1955:

"I do not believe the story that his home was commandeered for a hospital during the Civil War. The hospital was at Camp Dennison and wounded soldiers were brought back from battle, sent by train to this large hospital. However, the confusion comes from the fact that St. Mary's Hospital was located on Betts and Linn Streets in 1859. But it was built by the Sisters who had previously, for about a year occupied a house at another location before lots were bought at this location where the hospital still is and considered one of the best." †

But a year before their father's death, both Delos and his brother, Kneeland, enlisted in the same company and regiment in the Civil War, in which they served throughout, and as volunteers:

Delos Hills (1-101), (2-164), aged 18, private, mustered 20 Apr. 1861, enlisted for three months; mustered out, 20 June 1861. Also, aged 18, private, enlisted for three years, 20 June 1861, mustered in at Camp Harrison, Ohio,

* It seems odd that no one in the family knows from whence in Ireland, Mrs. Hills came; undoubtedly the immigration records, in Washington, would inform us, but this source has not been consulted. The R. C. Recds., in Philadelphia, might reveal the place of her birth.

† Perhaps the Widow Hills boarded convalescent soldiers for St. Mary's?

mustered out, on expiration of term, at Cincinnati, Ohio, 1 July 1864, by order of War Department. This was in Company I, 5th Regiment of Ohio Volunteers. (Civil War Roster of Ohio Men.)

He first appears in the Directories of Philadelphia, in 1868-1869, as a printer and living at 6 Shaffers Court. Also at that address the same year were his brothers, George, a student, and Kneeland, hat presser; Delos is listed as Delos-C. Hills. Their mother first appears in these Directories, in 1870, then at 926 Nectarine Street, but in 1874, she was at 3229 Darby Road and living with her was George-F. Hills, bookbinder; while Delos-C. Hills, compositor, was in his own home at 413 Albion Street. Later Directories were not consulted for the last named.

He became a convert to the Roman Catholic faith and was buried in the Cathedral Cemetery in Philadelphia. He followed his father's occupation in being a printer. Photostatic copies of his pension application have been secured from which the following digest was made:*

Delos Hills, Civil War, W. C. 63442:

Copy of Marriage Certificate: St. Patrick's Church, Philadelphia, "Dilos Hill" and "Mary O'Connor," married by the Rev. William O'Hara, D.D., 19 Jan. 1868, according to the rites of the Catholic Church; wit: Thomas O'Connor and Mary Egan; signed by the Rev. William Hieran, D.D.

22 Apr. 1874, Delos Hills applied for restoration of invalid pension, aged 29, of 413 Albion St.; wit: W.-R. LeChevalier and L.-F. Steel. 22 May 1874, aged 29, same addresses and witnesses repeated.

9 Feb. 1876, declaration for original invalid pension, Delos Hills, 31, of Philadelphia, Philadelphia Co., swears as to his service, was wounded in the service; since the war has lived in Pa., a printer, P. O. 2142 Kater St., wit: Enoch-E. Mulford of 909 Arch St., and A.-F. Adams of 1206 Camac St. He had suffered a gunshot wound in left thigh, 9 June 1862, at Port Republic, Va., was in a Washington hospital for treatment; after his discharge, he applied for a pension through a Cincinnati agent and was given a Pension Paper but never drew a pension and has since lost this Paper.

10 Mar. 1877, made an application for an increase of pension, same address, attested by Theodore-A. Waters of 816 Fallon St., and Christopher-G. Pepper of 1141 South St., all of Philadelphia; he gave age as 31.

In March 1879, he applied for arrears, then lived at 2210 Lombard St., Philadelphia.

21 Nov. 1890, he made another request for a pension increase, address care of the Inquirer office, aged 46; wit: W.-H. Kephart and W.-G. Haegels.

4 June 1898, a questionnaire answered by the soldier, gives name of wife as Maria M. O'Connor, whom he married, 19 Jan. 1869; their living children:

Delos C. Hills, b. 22 Dec. 1870

Thomas F. Hills, b. 20 Mar. 1875

Margaret M. Hills, b. 25 June 1877

Anna M. Hills, b. 23 June 1879

* From the National Archives, Washington, D. C.; they contain signatures of both "Delos Hills" and his widow, also certificate of marriage, of which a photo copy is included in the Hills Notes.

This statement he signed as "Delos Hills," for apparently he did not use his middle name or the initial representing the same.

No date [1900?], then of 624 N. 39th St., Philadelphia, he made a declaration for an original disability pension, aged 54, cites his service but states that he was discharged, 20 June 1864, at Chattanooga, Tenn., and is five feet seven and one half inches in height, of light complexion, with brown hair and hazel eyes.

After his death, his widow claimed a widow's pension, and a copy of his death certificate is included in the File, of which a photostatic copy is included in the Hills Notes. This record gives his birth as 21 Nov. 1846; elsewhere it appears as 22 Nov. 1846.

1 Dec. 1906, declaration for widow's pension made by Maria-M. Hills, aged 61, of 42 N. Hobart St., Philadelphia, who swears that she is the widow of Delos Hills, who died there, 22 Nov. 1906, that she married him under the name of "Maria O'Connor," 19 Jan. 1868, in said city, by the Rev. Dr. O'Hara, and appoints H.-Walter Miller, of the Gerard Trust Building of Philadelphia, as her agent; wit: Delos-C. Hills [Jr.] and Margaret-A. Noonan.

Affidavits made 22 Dec. 1906, by the widow, that the deceased possessed no property and left no will; the same by Delos-C. Hills (signed) [Jr.], aged 36, of 1021 Filbert St., and Mrs. Margaret Noonan (signed), aged 30, of 42 N. Hobart St. Also, same day, Carrie Wagner, aged 54, of 2738 N. 8th St., and Rose Ferguson, of 219 S. 24th St., testified, the former as to the lack of property, and the latter as to the marriage of the soldier and the said claimant, his widow.

Certified copy from Board of Revision of Taxes for Philadelphia, dated 3 Jan. 1907, shows that a negative search has been made of the Indices of the Assessor's Book of the 34th Ward and that no property was assessed in 1906 in the name of Delos Hills or Maria M. Hills.

20 Sept. 1916, the widow wrote the Pension Bureau about an increase; she than states her husband was born 21 Nov. 1844, that she was born in Ireland, 5 Feb. 1844 (signed). She died 15 Apr. 1928.

The stone erected by the United States in Cathedral Cemetery to Mr. Hills' memory bears the date of his death, his company and his regiment.

ADDENDA

JOHN HILL OF SAYBROOK

JOHN¹ HILL, birth and parentage unknown, but of Saybrook, Conn., by 1670, where he married, 14 Apr. 1670, JANE, widow of John Bushnell, of Boston, maiden name and birth not known. They were living in Saybrook, in 1671, when their only recorded child was born, and probably were there in 1678.

As has been pointed out, under the account of SAMUEL HILLS, W. S. Hills' and Thomas Hills' 1906 Hills Family in America, page 8, places our Samuel of Duxbury, Mass., sans proof, as that Samuel, born in Saybrook, 29 May 1671, son of the abovesaid John and Jane (——) (Bushnell) Hill. I gave the various reasons for which we do not think the two Samuels the same man. One thing seems quite apparent, this John of Saybrook was a HILL and not a HILLS, as was our Samuel, also the latter was born in 1673, and a shoemaker by trade. And this John Hill of Saybrook is not identical with John Hills of East Hartford, Conn., son of William Hills of Hartford, as has been erroneously printed and re-printed.

John Hills, son of William and Phillis (Lyman) Hills, was born about 1644–1645, buried in East Hartford, 5 Apr. 1692. He married, date not known, Mary ——, who married secondly Thomas Adkins.* The inventory of John's estate was taken, 20 Aug. 1692, by Thomas Kilbourn and Samuel Welles, at which time, Jonathan Hill, aged twenty-eight, and Dorothy Hill, aged twenty-five, testified, 1 Sept. 1692, that during brother John Hill's last sickness he said that when debts were paid his wife should enjoy all the estate for life, and then what was left at her death, should be divided equally between his two daughters. It is clear that this John Hills, son of William, left no sons. He did leave two daughters: Elizabeth, born about 1678; married first, William Buckland Jr., who died 12 Dec. 1724; she married secondly, James Forbes Jr., born 14 May 1676; a daughter, who perhaps died after 1692, unmarried and at an early age. I quote from Mr. Jacobus' footnote page 582, of his Hills account:†

“He was not the John Hill who m. at Saybrook, 14 Apr. 1670, Jane Bushnell, widow of John Bushnell (1615–1667), a woman probably of over 40 years, by whom he had one child, Samuel, b. at Saybrook, 29 May 1671. The Hills Family in America (1906) errs in this identification. John of (East) Hartford shows in his provision for wife and two daughters that he had no surviving male issue. The alleged son Samuel was just under the age of 21 when John Hills died and would not have been cut off without mention in his nuncupative will.”

The Saybrook Vital Records were published in 1952, and from pages 3 and 7, we note:

“John Hill was married to Jane Bushnell the 14th of Aprill 1670

Samuel Hill his son was born the 29th of May 1671

William Bushnell the son of John Bushnell Senior late of Boston deceased the 31 day of August 1684.” [all on p. 7.]

Sam Jones m. Mary Bushnell, 1 Jan. 1663. [p. 7.]

Jonathan Smith m. Martha Bushnell, 1 Jan. 1663. [p. 7.] [same day.]

There is an account of the Bushnell family in Daves-Gates, 2: 163-172, compiled by the late Mrs. Mary Ferris and printed in 1931. The progenitor was a Francis Bushnell of Guilford, Conn., who was probably the father of Francis, the younger, of Saybrook; William of Saybrook; Rebecca, who married John Lord; Richard, who married Mary Marvin, and possibly John.

It is thought that the reason that Jane, widow of John, and mother of his seven children, left Boston, and went to Saybrook, where she married, in 1670, John Hill of same, and by whom she had one child, son Samuel, in 1671, was that her deceased husband, John Bushnell, was closely related to the Saybrook Bushnells.

It has been claimed that John of Boston was the same man as John of Salem, a glazier, but this is not true, for the former was a barber or barber-surgeon. Notes on his estate follow:

John Bushnell, 1667, administration; inventory and distribution, originals all on file. Copies of the same appear in 5: 66, 64, 66. There is also a 1685 administration d.b.n. and warrant for inventory copied in 9: 249. The bond is copied in new series 1: 516.

Inventory of the estate of “John Bushnell” who died 5 Aug. 1667 appraised 19 Aug. 1667. Contains his plate, books, two Bibles, an apparently well to do man, all personal property and amounting to £241-01-02, as taken by Robert Pateshall, “John Conney” and James Brading. [This was Coney of the famed silversmith family of Boston.] Jane, the relict and widow attested; it was ordered that she was to have her thirds and the rest to be divided among the children; the widow to give bond.

Bond, John Bushnell, cordwainer, with John Conney, cooper, both of Boston, said Conney as his bondsman, appointed administrator d.b.n. of the estate of his “late father s^d John Bushnell of Boston Barber dec^d” 16 Dec. 1685, both sign.

Warrant for inventory, 14 Dec. 1685, full power to administer the estate de bonis non of John Bushnell, sometime of Boston “Barber” granted to John, his son, being now come of age in right of himself and in right of his surviving sister, and the child of his deceased sister. Deacon Henry Alline, Mr. Edward Wyllys and Mr. John Usher to make a new inventory of the house and land; for the administratrix, Jane, has now removed out of this jurisdiction. On reverse it mentions the house in Boston where Mr. William “Haukins” lately lived and now in the occupation and "tenur of ye widow of Joseph Haukins," 25 Jan. 1685-86.

(Suffolk Probate, 471.)

"Ordered that notice bee given to James Hill in Saybrook who married with the widow of John Bushnell that at the next County Court there wilbe a Setlement made of that Estate, one of the children being married, and that in the meane time Dr Hawkins who Lives in the house pay no Rent without order of Court." 29 Jan. 1677-78.

Returning to John Hill of Saybrook, Conn., little is known about him. The name of Saybrook was changed to that of Deep River, 1 July 1947, and this is where the old records are on file. Mr. Jacobus covered these for us, as follows: From official copy of Volume I, Saybrook Deeds †:

(page 90), a different mark entirely than that of the older John. Lands bought by Joseph Ingham, of John Hill (page 71), could refer to the older man, as apparently not dated. (D. L. J.)

We have noted that this John Hill, of Saybrook, sold out his property there, 21 Feb. 1675 and there is no further mention of him in the local records. However, see the Court action, in Boston, 29 Jan. 1677-78, by which it would appear that John Hill and his wife, Jane (widow of John Bushnell of Boston), were still of Saybrook at that time.

Child of John and Jane (——) (Bushnell) Hill:

SAMUEL, b. 29 May 1671; no further record. In my opinion this Samuel Hill was not identical with the Samuel Hills, of Duxbury, aged 62 in 1735, etc., and a shoemaker by trade.

SERGEANT PHILIP LEONARD OF DUXBURY

SGT. PHILIP¹ LEONARD (Thomas, Henry), born in England, circa 1630, died in Duxbury, Plymouth County, Mass., 3 July 1708, intestate. He married, perhaps late in life, LYDIA ———, who died in Duxbury, 13 Nov. 1707.

A proved brother of the prominent ironmongers, Henry and James Leonard, early of Taunton, Mass., Philip probably originated in county Somerset, Old England, near Pontypool, Monmouthshire, in Wales, where these brothers were presumably apprenticed to the iron trade. The claim that these Leonards were of the Lennard of Dacre family is not only without foundation in fact, but quite fantastic. We have contemporary evidence that Somerset was their home shire and very possibly the parish of Sparkford.*

As dictated, in 1732, by Hannah (Leonard) Deane, to her great nephew; she was a daughter of the first James Leonard of Taunton,† her mother being a Martin and her siblings being: Thomas, James, Benjamin, Uriah, Abigail and Rebecca Leonard. She also stated that her grandfather was a Thomas Leonard, whose wife was born a White, and that their children (in addition to her own father) were: Henry, William, John, PHILIP, Thomas, Margery, Joan and Sarah. Her great-grandfather was Henry Leonard. She gave more data about the family with the fact that her aunt Sarah died "at New Salem." Her various statements, thus made in 1732, have proved to be correct; she was an old lady with a remarkable memory.

From the Friends' Records (Salem, N. J. Monthly Meeting [Quakers]), it appears that: ‡

Robert Fairbanks borne in lestershire in or about the yeare 1632. In or about the yeare 1653 the said Robert Fairbanks transported himself from England to Ireland. In the yeare 1676 the said Robert Fairbanks took to wife Sarah Leonard daughter of Thomas Leonard, borne in Spencefield in Summerset Shire. In the yeare 1677 the said Robert Fairbanks transported himself with Sarah his wife and one daughter Elizabeth Stubings he the said Robert having her by a former wife, and her husband Henry Stubings, from Ireland to the province of west new Jersey. They set saile on the 16th day of ye ninth month in the ship called the Mary of dublin, John Wall being Master, and landed at Elsinburgh in the province of west new Jersey the 22 of the 12 month following.

Mr. Cook then continues with abstracts of the New Jersey wills which give us the estate of Robert Fairbanck of Elsenburgh (Salem County), tailor, in 1682, the administration being granted to one John Thompson, of same, carpenter, "who has married Sarah, the widow of Robert Fairbanks." Also the estate of Sarah Thompson, will dated 1720, of same, widow, who divided her "worldly estate," between kinsmen Henry Leonard of Cape May and Thomas Leonard of East Jersey, to other relatives and gave legacies to various persons, including the children of brother James Leonard.

There is no doubt that the "aunt Sarah" who "died at New Salem" mentioned by Hannah (Leonard) Deane in 1732 is identical with the above Sarah (Leonard) (Fairbanks) Thompson of New Jersey. However, whoever compiled or copied the Friends' Records misread the name of the place, for Mr. Cook states that "Spencefield" should be read "Spenceford" [Sparkford]. As Mr. Jacobus, editor of the American Genealogist comments:

"It is one of life's ironies that a family so uniquely fortunate as to possess a statement of origin made by a daughter of the first settler should be concerned to disregard this statement in order to accept an entirely unproved claim of descent from an English titled family. No reason, so far as I can learn, has ever been given for disputing any of the statements of fact made by Mrs. Deane, nor is there any reason to doubt that James Leonard and his brother Henry [and brother Philip] were from Pontypool, Monmouthshire. The claims of descent from the Dacre Lennards (as they consistently spell the name) are conflicting, undocumented, and (disregarding the impossible claim) decidedly improbable. . . . With all the interest that has been shown in the origin of the family, one can but wonder that research has not been undertaken in the neighborhood of Pontypool."*

(The American Genealogist, 10: 162-166, 200-201; 11: 53.)

And so we can prove that our Philip Leonard was a son of Thomas and ——— (Martin) Leonard and a grandson of Henry and ——— (White) Leonard, presumably from Somerset and in the neighborhood of Sparkford and Pontypool. Inasmuch as Philip Leonard left no male heirs, he and his career have been sadly neglected.

We have already noted in the account of Samuel Hills, who married the only child of Philip Leonard, Phebe Leonard, that this marriage was enacted in Duxbury, 6 Nov. 1694. 9 July 1702, Philip was named as a bound in a land grant to his son-in-law; 17 May 1703, both Philip and Samuel protested about a town action; 13 Nov. 1707, Lydia, Philip's wife died, followed, 3 July 1708, by Philip's own death. Brief notes about Philip's estate appear in Samuel Hills' account, which are amplified later here; finally, 24 Dec. 1712, when Samuel renewed the bounds of his lands, they are described as possessed formerly by "his father's Phillip Leonard." (Duxbury Town Recds., 1893, 193, 90; Duxbury Gen. Recds., 1645-1749, 56; Duxbury Misch. Recds., 1642-1745, 285; Duxbury V.R.; Mayflower Desc., 10: 184; Plymouth Probate, 12663.) †

* Pontypool is adjacent to Somerset. Both Mr. Jacobus and Mr. Cook have assisted us on the Hills research.

† Vide ante.

Philip first appears on these shores in connection with the Iron Works at Hammersmith, on the Saugus River in Massachusetts. Often known as the Cradle of American Industry, "the Hammersmith works draws significance from the fact that it was the first in the colonies to produce successfully both cast iron and wrought iron from pig iron. Its productive life extended from about 1646 to about 1675." Philip's brothers, Henry and James, supposedly came over about 1640; Henry was of Lynn in 1668, and later of Boxford, but failing in business fled to New Jersey about 1673, where his sons, Samuel, Nathaniel and Thomas, followed him. James, however, became established in Taunton and "sired a mighty clan of iron workers."*

The only item found for Philip in connection with Hammersmith is the following: payment to Philip and Henry, for hunting a missing Scot [perhaps one of the Scotch prisoners, brought to these shores, after the Battle of Worcester (1651) and sold, in 1652]:

Payment made to "henery and phillipe lennard for seekeing after scott" six shillings, December 1652. (Superior Court of Judicature, File 225.) (Gifford and Undertakers of the Ironworks, paper 11, case heard 1654.)

By 1657, Philip was of Taunton, then in Plymouth Colony, and since 1686, within the county of Bristol, when he became a freeman by taking the "Oath of Fidelitic" as "Phillip Lenard." (Plymouth Col. Recds., Misc. 1633-1689, 8: 186.) Two years later, 6 Oct. 1659, we read that: "James Lenard, Phillip Lenard," and others, all of Taunton, were warned to appear in court, for sundry misdemeanors committed in Taunton. (ibid., Court Orders, 1651-1668, 3: 176.)

1 May 1662, the estate of Thomas Billington, of Taunton, was appraised and Jeremiah Newland, "Phillip Lenard" and "James Lenard," had sums due them by the estate. (Mayflower Desc., 17: 216.) 1 Mar. 1663-64, "Henery Green of Taunton, for breach of the peace by striking Phillip Leanard, fined 03: 04." (Plymouth Col. Recds., Court Orders, 1651-1668, 4: 50.) Next, 29 Oct. 1669, "Phillip Leanard" and others were presented for not "paying there rate to the minnistry," the verdict being that they must pay as rated last year "and that the constable be payed for his distresse." (ibid., Court Orders, 1668-1678, 5: 28.)

In the estate of Ralph Chapman Sr., late of Marshfield, who died testate, we find that the inventory was taken by "Philip Leanard (who signed by a mark) and Peregrine White, 27 Jan. 1671-72. Chapman's estate was also indebted to "Phillip Leanard," and others.

Those interested in the Saugus Iron Works (Hammersmith) Restoration are referred to booklets issued by the American Iron and Steel Inst., of New York, N. Y., 1951 and 1952, also various issues their "Gazette," 1951, 1952, 1953, 1954.

(Mayflower Desc., 19: 132-135.)* This item is the first we have showing Philip to be a resident of Marshfield, from where he did not remove to Duxbury, as has been stated, but lived on the line between the two old towns, and when the bounds between them were finally established, 23 Feb. 1683, his place came under the jurisdiction of Duxbury.

In the expedition to New York against the Dutch, "Phillip Leonard" was one of four "Sarjeants" and was to be paid three shillings a day, 17 Dec. 1673. (Plymouth Col. Recds., Court Orders, 1668-1678, 5: 136.)

5 June 1678, "Phillip Leonard, of Marshfield, in the jurisdiction of New Plymouth, nailer," was bound unto the Court in the sum of £30 sterling, etc., to pay towards the support of a child he had of Elizabeth Loe, a singlewoman, until the child attained the age of seven. (ibid., 5: 260-261.) We will let the actual records tell the tale.

Debts due the estate of William Sherman, late of Marshfield, deceased, included one by Philip "Leonard," the estate being appraised, 30 Dec. 1680. In January 1680-81, Philip "Leonard" was named as indebted to the estate of William Sherman of Marshfield. (Pope's 1918 Plymouth Col. Scrap Book, 19; Mayflower Desc., 4: 172; Holman's 1936 Desc. William Sherman of Marshfield.)

Philip Leonard was an appraiser of the estate of Lt. Samuel Nash, of Duxbury, "being aged, and not in a capassety to live and keep house of himselfe, hath therfor put his estate unto the hands of William Clarke, of Duxburrow," etc., 5 Mar. 1683-84. (ibid., Court Orders, 1678-1691, 6: 126.) †

There is a mention of "Philip Lenard" as a bound in the published 1893 Duxbury Town Records, 25 Apr. 1694 and 30 Oct. 1695, pages 67-68. He was evidently living near the South River there, near Marshfield line.

He has no recorded deeds in the Plymouth Colony Deeds, the Plymouth or the Bristol, County Deeds, and various sources, published and unpublished, pertaining to Essex County contain no mention of him. There is at Plymouth, in the Registry of Deeds, a single large copied volume entitled: Marshfield Proprietors, not paginated or indexed; it is difficult to discover what years it embraces but it is evidently of an early period, this volume was not scanned for lack of time.‡

According to the Duxbury Town Records, 1893, page 91: 25 Dec.

* Copies of the Plymouth Col. Deeds and Estates, made about 1860 when it was intended to print them, may be consulted at the Mass. Archives. Originals are at Plymouth.

‡ Gen. Scissions of the Peace, Plymouth Co., covered 1686 past 1725, also concurrent (from 1702 only extant) Recds. of Court Common Pleas; both negative.

1712, Caleb Samson was to have an addition of land to his lot "next to Phillip Leonard's land." For other mentions of Philip, see his son-in-law Samuel Hills' account.

In a "Topographical Discription of Raynham," 6 Feb. 1793, by the Rev. Peres Forbes, LL.D., is a statement that James Leonard, "the great progenitor" had three brothers, and towards the end:

"The circumstance of a family attachment to the iron manufacture is so well known, as to render it a common observation in this part of the country, viz. where you find iron works, there you will find a LEONARD." *

A brief mention of Philip Leonard's estate appears in the account of his son-in-law, Samuel Hills, who, having married Philip's heiress, succeeded to the Leonard property. There is no extant bond now on file, but in the copy books are the inventory and the letter of administration, see volume 2: 99-100. The original inventory appears in File 12663. Photostatic copies of the two records (inventory and letter) and of the original document (inventory) are included in the Hills Notes.

THE BROWNS OF WOBURN AND COLCHESTER

Preface

Hannah Brown, wife of Lebbeus Hills, was the daughter of George and Elizabeth (Wells) Brown, and the granddaughter of John and Elizabeth Brown, of Colchester, Conn. In the course of the identification of her father, George Brown, a few notes were gathered, not only in relation to him, but also respecting his father, John. From this research, it would seem that John Brown is identical with the John of Billerica and Woburn, Middlesex County, Mass., who married Elizabeth, daughter of George and Elizabeth (Winn) Polly of Woburn, for reasons that will be explained on the following pages. Therefore, a few notes about this John and his immediate family, precede the short account of George, his son. Later we hope to complete the search on these Polly and Winn ancestors, and to continue the investigation of the ancestry of Elizabeth (Wells) Brown, viz: Wells, Beardsley, Allis and Meakins.

There is an unpleasant court case concerning a John Brown of Colchester but our John is completely absolved as he died before the events took place. Moreover there were a number of John Browns all living in the early days within that town and the problem was to differentiate them.

JOHN ¹ BROWN of Billerica, Woburn and Colchester, born about 1655, died in Colchester, Conn., intestate, before 14 Nov. 1707. He married in Woburn, as of Billerica, both towns within Middlesex County, Mass., 22 Apr. 1682, ELIZABETH POLLY, born in Woburn, 14 Apr. 1657, who perhaps died in Colchester, between 18 Feb. 1707-08 and 8 Mar. 1708-09 *, daughter of George and Elizabeth (Winn) Polly and the granddaughter of Edward Winn of Woburn.†

A footnote in Johnson's 1891 Woburn Marriages, page 35, states:

In Dec. 1682, a John Brown of Woburn was convicted of stealing a horse and was sentenced to restore threefold damages to pay costs and to be whipt twenty stripes. Middlesex County Court Records, Volume 4.

No proof is offered that this applies to John Brown who, April 1682, and December 1683, was of Billerica.

Hazen's Billerica, published in 1883, page 18 of genealogical section, cites:

"31. 10^m. 1683. At a meeting of y^e Selectmen, John Browne being sumoned and appearing before y^e Selectmen to give an account of his coming to inhabit in our towne without liberty from the town first had and obtained [?] according to our town orders. The Selectmen having received an evill report of y^e s^d pson, they gave him Notice of our towne orders, respecting ye entertainment of persons into y^e towne to be inhabitants. and that wee were not willing to entertain him as an inhabitant. and warned him forthwith to remove out of our towne on the penalty of our towne orders. which is twenty shilling^s per weeke, unless he gave bond, with security (within one week) that hee should not be chargeable to y^e towne, nor his family." Also, George Grymes is also warned of the penalty he would incur "in case he suffers the s^d Brown to live in any of his housing or tenements more than one week longer." "But this Browne did not leave in a week and the constable reported his tax, with others not paid in Dec., 1687."

† A copy of the will of George Polly concludes this Brown account.

This was merely the old Town Warning Law, which some towns were careful to keep and other towns ignored and, as a general rule, had nothing to do with the morals or financial aspect of those so warned. In case the newcomer, did become indigent, for any manner of reason, it absolved the town from caring for the person, or their family, of those so warned.*

John and Elizabeth (Polly) Brown had five children recorded in Woburn, of whom the eldest is stated to have been born in Billerica, in the Woburn Town Records. These children were: John, born 27 Mar. 1683, died 28 Mar. 1683; John, born 22 Jan. 1684; Elizabeth, born 6 July 1685 (who evidently died in infancy); a second Elizabeth, born 10 Feb. 1687; and Hannah, born 27 Apr. 1689.

On the reverse of the inventory of the estate of John Brown of Colchester is a list of his children, which gives John, aged twenty-four; Elizabeth, aged twenty-one; Hannah, aged nineteen; Joseph, aged fifteen; Samuel, aged thirteen and George, aged eleven, in 1708. It will therefore be noted that the ages of John, Elizabeth and Hannah, agree as to the years of birth of the John, Elizabeth and Hannah, born and recorded in Woburn: John, born 1684; Elizabeth, born 1687 and Hannah born 1689.

Also, Elizabeth Polly's siblings were named: John, Joseph, George, Samuel, Hannah, Sarah and Edward. Disregarding the name of John, as that was her husband's given name, we note the appearance, in the John and Elizabeth of Colchester family, of these names: Joseph, George, Samuel and Hannah.

An examination of the Colchester Deeds failed to reveal the former home of John Brown. Turning to the Middlesex County Deeds, Probate and Court Files in Cambridge, Mass: The land records in the name of John Brown were read past 1735 and those of George Brown past 1765, and nothing was gleaned to disparage our assumption that the John of Billerica and Woburn and the John of Colchester are one and the same person. At the same time the estates of George Polly and Edward Winn were covered. There is no estate for Elizabeth, wife of George Polly, and no guardianships for Joseph and George Brown. There are several items in the Court Files that apply to John of Billerica and Woburn, one of which reads:

Petition heard 1 April 1684, dated 28 March 1684, Billerica, that "John Browne himselfe and his family" are come to inhabit without liberty from the town and the town is not willing to accept them and he refuses to leave, etc. [original document]. W. P. A. Index: 1684: 108: 5.

There are three documents in the estate of John Brown of Colchester*: the inventory and two bonds; photostatic copies of the originals are included in the Hills Notes, of which brief notes follow. The inventory commences:

"Colchester November the 14 1707 an inventory of the estat of John Browen deceset

a houes and home Lot of 21 acres at	45	00	00
eight acers of upland an meddow at Stebinges meddow and tow acers of meddow to mack = that 10 acers at one hundred acres of Lands more at	12	00	00
	25	00	00"

Then follows his cattle and stock, household goods, farming tools, grain, wearing clothes and "severall Bookes," also a "gunn," to a total of £132-01-00. Thus it is clear that at his death, he was possessed of a house and a total of about one hundred and thirty acres. On the reverse of the inventory appears:

"The Names and Ages of the Children of y^e Deceased.

George	11

And "Elizabeth Brown widow and Relict of John Brown Late of Colchester deceased" appeared at the Probate Court held in New London, 18 Feb. 1707-08 and attested this inventory, which was recorded in the Book of Wills in folio 101, 28 Feb. 1707-08.†

Bond: 18 Feb. 1707-08, Elizabeth Brown with John Brown, as her surety, both of Colchester, was bonded in the sum of £80, and appointed the administratrix of the estate of John Brown, late of same, deceased; both sign by mark.

* C. S. L., Hartford, Conn. Note that when Benedict Arnold invaded New London, 6 Sept. 1781, all the Probate Records were destroyed, also the Files from 1777 and the Journals from Apr. 1763. So there are no extant records (copy books) for this estate. The Deeds and Town Records were in the part, now Waterford, so were saved.

† Only in Conn., do we find that quite commonly the names and ages of the children are written on the inventories.

Bond: 8 Feb. 1708 [-09], John Brown of Colechester, with Joseph Pumry of same, as his surety, was appointed the administrator of John Brown deceased [no residence cited]; signed by "John brown" and "Joseph pumery." [The latter's signature agrees with that on the inventory, but had John Brown, the son, learned to write his name during the past year?] (New London Dist. Probate, 781.)

Some of the following surveys apply to this John Brown and some to his eldest son * [Born in 1684, John was of full age in 1705]:

By virtue of a former grant to John Brown deceased of a homelot it is now recorded which is in breadth 21 rods & in length 160 rods bounded north on Jonathan Kilbourn's homelot and south on Henry Tomison's lot east and west on highways; entered 3 Mar. 1708-09. (Colchester Deeds, 1: 137.)

Laid out for John Brown in March 6th 1704 sixty acres of land which is called his first division lying west of Longmeadow bounding first at the northeast corner with a near stone by the road to James Brown's & so runs northwest 80 rods to bounds set by a run of water and then runs southwest 120 rods to a black oak tree marked by the Governor's road and then runs southeast 80 rods to bounds and then northeast 120 rods to the first bounds laid out; entered 3 Mar. 1708-09, John Skinner, Surveyor. (ibid.)

17 Jan. 1709, laid out for John Brown two hundred acres of land which is his second and third division lying near the deep brook beginning at the southeast corner bounds of Lt. Well's land and runeth southeasterly 8 score rods then runeth northeasterly 200 rods to a place called the falls then runeth northwesterly 160 rods then runeth southwesterly 200 rods to the first bounds, Samuel Pellet Surveyor. [probably 1709-10] (ibid.)

5 Mar. 1706, laid out for John Brown eight acres of meadow in the meadow called the Stebbins meadow bounding north on land of Joseph Wright's 111 rods west on common land 12 rods bounding south on Joshua Hemsted's land 111 rods bounded east with common land 12 rods, John Skinner, Surveyor. (ibid.)

3 Apr. 1716, Then laid out for the heirs of John Brown, deceased, one hundred acres of land which is in the fourth division lying on the north side of land of Ebenezer Colman on the east side of the old road to New London bounding first at Colman's northeast corner and so runeth east by 8 score rods to Colman's northeast corner and from thence north and by west 100 rods to bounds set and from thence west by south 8 score rods to bounds set by the road and from thence south and by east 100 rods to the first bounds aforesaid, John Skinner, Surveyor. (ibid., 1: 223.)

As the following survey appears on the same page it probably pertains to Samuel, son of John, who was of full age in 1716, and who is called Jr., to distinguish him from Samuel, son of Thomas and Hannah (Lee) Brown:

27 Mar. 1718, laid out to Samuel Brown Jr., one hundred acres of land which is the fourth division of that right which was his father's lying about half a mile from Salmon River on the east side of a place called Chestnut Hill, bounding first at a white oak tree marked stones about it and from thence northeast 8 score rods to a heap of stones and from thence northwest 100 rods to a black oak tree marked stones about it and from thence southwest 8 score rods to a chestnut tree marked stones about it and from thence southeast 100 rods to the first bounds above said, John Skinner, Surveyor. This is again recorded 4 Feb. 1716-17. (ibid., 1: 223, 110.)*

* Abstracted for me from the microfilm copies at the C. S. L., by Mrs. Townsend; I did not personally cover the Colchester Deeds on the Browns.

Those deeds that deal with the estate of John Brown in which George Brown, his youngest son, appears, will be considered in that son's account. They should be consulted by those interested in the children of John, for they prove where some of them removed, e.g., John went to Farmington and then to Canaan, Conn., and Joseph settled in Lyme, Conn., etc.

The abstracts below probably apply to John Brown Jr., born in 1684; he must not be confused with that John, born in Deerfield, Mass., 10 Feb. 1694-95, son of James and Remembrance (Brooks) Brown. After the father's death, in 1707, John Jr., became, it seems, the senior John in Colchester.

22 May 1710, John Brown, of Colchester, sold John Baker, of same, land there, on the road to New London, one mile below Lt. Wells' dwelling house and bounded north on land of Benjamin Fox, etc.; wit: Joseph Pumery and Ephraim Foot; ack. 13 Nov. 1710 and recd. 11 July 1713. (Colchester Deeds, 1: 458.)

10 Nov. 1710, John "Browne" of Colchester sold to Ephraim Wells, of New London, for £50, land in Colchester, comprising some fifty-three acres in upland and meadow with a house, upon part of same, the boundaries being Noah Wells, Joseph Pumery, John Adams, James Taylor, Samuel Pellet and Edward Wolf; wit: Joseph Pumery and Caleb Jeffers; ack. 13 Nov. 1710 and recd. 13 Nov. 1712. (ibid., 1: 405.)

2 Nov. 1717, John Brown, husbandman, of Colchester, sold to Joseph Kellogg, for £30, land there; wit: Josiah Phelps and James Treadway; ack. 17 Dec. 1718 and recd. same. (ibid., 2, part 1: 284.)

In 1724 and in 1728, by three deeds, a John Brown Jr., of Colchester, sold land there. Evidently a younger man. (ibid., 2, part 1: 499, 654, 776.)

Testimony was given by a John Brown, aged eighteen, 10 Sept. 1713, at Colchester, in a witchcraft case.† This was evidently John, son of James, born 10 Feb. 1695, who is said to have married 28 Nov. 1725, Hannah Janes.

In the Preface to this little Brown account, reference was made to

* Samuel, of full age in 1719, son of Thomas Brown, appears in the deeds. (Colchester Deeds, 2, part 1: 287.) A Samuel m. 12 May 1713, Colchester, Elizabeth Collins; a Samuel m. 14 Apr. 1715, Suffield, Conn., as of Colchester, Priscilla Kent, recd. both places. Mrs. Townsend states that the Samuel who m. 6 Aug. 1729, Colchester, Mary Dunham, by whom he had three children 1729-1732, was an illeg. son of Thankful Brown, dau. of James and Remembrance (Brooks) Brown, by Samuel Fuller; later Thankful m. Richard Carrier.

a court case. This relates to the events about a John Brown of Colchester that took place there, 11 Oct. 1710, the case being heard 19 Sept. 1713. Joseph Chapman was also accused of the same crime (sodomy), the verdict:

“viz^t that they shall sit on the Gallows the space of one hour with a rope about their necks and then be taken down and whipt on their naked bodies the number of thirty nine stripes.”

(Crimes and misdemeanors, 2: 82–88.)

GEORGE² BROWN (*John*¹), born probably in Colchester, Conn., in 1697, died there, intestate, 6 Feb. 1761, aged sixty-four. He married there, 12 Apr. 1730, ELIZABETH WELLS, baptised in New London, Conn., 17 July 1709, died in Colchester, testate, between 25 June 1769 and 1 Jan. 1771, daughter of Ensign Ephraim and Abigail (Allis) Wells.*

Evidently named for his maternal grandfather, George Polly, when the inventory of John Brown's estate was made, the youngest child listed in this original document is "George ——— 11." As an orphan, he had his way to make and did not marry until he was thirty-three. We have noted that, 11 Oct. 1737, George Brown was appointed the guardian of two of his Huntley nephews, vide ante. In 1745, he was administrator of the estate of Jonathan Kellogg of Colchester. No exhaustive research has been made; only his deeds and probate records have been covered:

4 Nov. 1719, Colchester, Mr. Taintor pray be pleased to record to my brother George Brown a piece of land lying on Deep Brook Hill being in estimation 70 acres be it more or less which is part of the 3d and 4th division beginning at a stake and runing northward half a mile to a stake from thence eastward 70 rods to a black oak tree from thence southward half a mile to a place call'd the falls from thence westward 70 rods to the first bounds and also his part of the land not yet divided

Oct. 1755. (ibid., 6, part 1: 5.) [He was an heir of Hannah (Brown) (Huntley) Baker, sister of George Brown.]

Notes on George Brown's estate appear below. The original file consists of one bond, one inventory (not dated), and one distribution, of which photostatic copies are included in the Hills Notes. The contemporary copybooks, (probate volumes) have not been consulted.

2 Mar. 1761, Elizabeth Brown, with Elias Worthington, both of Colchester, as her surety, was appointed the administratrix of the estate of George Brown, late of same decd., and signs the bond by mark.

The inventory was filed 3 Mar. 1761, having been made by Daniel Morgan, Elijah and Elias Worthington. It lists the household furnishings and farm utensils, as well as the clothing of the deceased, among these items we take special note of a Bible, an old Bible, two spelling books and other books, a gun and bullets, pewter and brass, a beaver hat, a great coat, leather breeches, beds and bedding, linen goods, cows, sheep and oxen, an old mare, a little mare and a year-old colt, grains, and finally the real property: one hundred twenty acres with buildings and orchard itemized at £480. [Depreciated currency of that era.]

The distribution, made by the appraisers of the estate, was filed in the Probate Court, 1 Mar. 1762. The real property was accorded the widow, Elizabeth, who had her thirds; then to Darius Brown, the eldest son; Ezra Brown; Jesse Brown; Oliver Brown; Amasa Brown; daughters: Elizabeth Brown, alias Stark; Chloe Brown; the heirs of Lydia Avery, decd., the wife of Jonathan Avery; Hannah Brown, alias Hills, as see verbatim copy below; a "pent way" is provided for across the lots of land. Roughly the widow received twenty-seven acres, Darius, sixteen acres, Ezra eight acres, Jesse, eleven acres, Oliver, twelve acres, Amasa, twelve acres, Elizabeth, ten acres, Chloe nine acres, heirs of Lydia, ten acres, and Hannah, twelve acres, as see below:

"To Hannah Brown alias Hills twelve acres lying at the South end of the

The others also received varying amounts of the old house and barn: the children, except the eldest son, each had the same share as Hannah, the eldest son had two ninths of two thirds and the widow had her full thirds, or dower rights in the same. Finally:

“Distribution of the personal Estate of m^r George Brown late of Colchester Deceasd as follows (viz)

Received of her parents	12 12 03
To Hannah Browne alias Hills	09 07 04

So, each daughter had about the same in personal goods, the value of about £21. Chloe Brown, as unmarried, had not had her share. (Colchester Dist. Probate, 420.)

The widow drew her will, 25 June 1769, which was proved 1 Jan. 1771, so, at most, she only survived her husband not quite ten years. The probate volumes have not been examined for her estate but a copy of her original will follows:*

Lemuel Fitch	Elisabeth Brown"
Zebulon Ames	mark

Proved 1 Jan. 1771 by all three witnesses; the will was evidently written by John Watrous. (Colchester Dist. Probate, 416.)

We have noted, that Hannah joined with her husband, Lebbeus Hills in a quitclaim of rights in her father, George Brown's homestead, in Colchester, 8 Mar. 1774, recorded in 1782, to her brother, Amasa Brown, this property being bounded by Lemuel Fitch, Ezra Brown, heirs of "Lydia Brown Alice Avery," [alias Avery] and land formerly Jesse Brown's. An earlier deed by Lebbeus and Hannah (Brown) Hills, dated 29 Mar. 1762, recorded in 1763, conveying property (twelve acres) there, to Elias Ransom, may also have been her inheritance, it was bounded by Jonathan Avery, Timothy Stark, and ——— Treadway. (vide ante.)

Apparently no stones are extant to the memories of George Brown and his widow, Elizabeth; her record of death is not in the church or town records so we lack the exact date. In 1779, her brother remembered his deceased sister:

The will of Thomas Wells of Colchester, advanced in years, drawn 13 Nov. 1779, filed 3 Mar. 1780, names wife Sarah; heirs of: deceased brother, Ephraim Wells, of brother Joshua Wells, of deceased sisters Abigail Marriner, Mary

* The part I have omitted is merely a repetition at top of reverse of the page.

Day, Sarah "Whay," Elizabeth Brown, Hannah ———,* Lydia Rowley and Rebeckkah Edgerton; witnessed by Elias Worthington Jr., Joshua Morgan and John Watrous. (Colchester Dist. Probate, 3232.)

Proved 1 Apr. 1684. The first named witness evidently wrote the will.

"An Inventory of the Estate of George poly sen^r who deceased upon the twenty second daye of Janewary 1683-4," was taken, 21 Feb. 1683[-84], by “ffrances Kendall & James Converse,” the total amount being £298-09-06. It included “one small hous and about 35 acres of upland adjoyning,” some one hundred and one additional acres in upland, swamp, meadow and woodlot; his stock, with “one mare and bridle sadle and pilion and harnes”; carpenter’s tools; household effects with a “brass scilet” listed; a “Swarm of bees,” etc. 1 Apr. 1684, “Deborah Polly” attested to the truth of the inventory. (Middlesex Probate, 17699.) *

* Photo copies of the original will and inventory are included in Mr. Hills’ files which contain unfinished data on the various families in the ancestry of Hannah (Brown) Hills. (See chart.) The “Deborah Polly,” is an original error for Elizabeth Polly, the widow.
